CARPET DEPARTMENT.
We invite an inspection of this department. It contains the largest and choicest stock of Floor Coverings in the Southern hemisphere. The most celebrated manufacturers of Europe and America are represented by their newest productions, and in such variety that we can at all times suit the most fastidious furnishing connoisseur.
Just landed, a large shipment of the celebrated VICTORIA FELT CARPETS, specially made for Victoria House. The designs and colourings now produced in these carpets are well worthy of inspection. Some SQUARES we are showing are really artistic, evidencing a care in drawing and colouring hitherto unapproached. Some nice new patterns in all wool Kidderminsters. Also, Dutch and damask Stair Carpetings in all widths.

FLOORCLOTHS AND LINOLEUMS.
A shipment now to hand, all widths. For cheapness and newness of design cannot be equalled. Bordered cloths for halls and corridors we have too in endless variety, and our 13 feet Linoleums at 5s 3d per square yard are the most satisfactory goods we have had the pleasure of introducing.

QUOTATIONS EXTRAORDINARY.
The following new PIANOS are offered at a discount of from £10 to £20 below the ruling market price, viz.:—Lip Semi-grand, walnut, £90; Bluthner Concert Grand, £165; Ronisch Semi-Grand, ebonised and gold engraved case, £85; Bluthner Grand Cottage, double oblique, the best model, £68; ditto, smaller sizes, £63, £55, and £50; Aucher, Model 1, £32; Mod. 2, £36; Mod. 8, folding keyboard, £38; Bord, Mod. 7, £32; all walnut cases and trichord. These quotations apply only to a limited number of instruments, and as these will undoubtedly be cleared out in a few days, buyers may rest assured such an opportunity of purchasing a first-class pianoforte, brand new, and warranted for three to seven years, will not occur again in a life time.
Our prices for cash are the lowest, and our system of time-payments the easiest of any house in Sydney.
Our stock is simply unequalled for variety and extent—such a choice can nowhere be obtained. We live with this age of progress. We lay hold of every new improvement and invention in the musical world, and are not content to sell to our patrons the same instruments that were made 20 years ago.
We back our opinions with a substantial guarantee for a term of years, and not only this, we further offer three months' free trial of any instruments taken on our recommendation. And the result is every customer produces half-a-dozen others. We receive daily voluntary testimonials from all parts of the country. To-day a clergyman says, "During the four days I stayed in Sydney I visited every establishment, and having to purchase two Organs, with a probability of more, I naturally made a very careful examination and trial. But your Clough and Warren Organs are BY FAR THE BEST in every respect. I wish you, therefore, to send a style 233, and a style C. G.," &c., &c. Another gentleman writes, "I have selected your Organ from samples and prices sent from 10 different houses."
Price Lists gratis and post free. Our new photographic catalogue will be issued in June. Price List of Second-hand Pianos below.

LONG and FAITHFUL SERVICE is recognised sometimes, though often forgotten when not needed. But those who are well served during nearly a fifth of a century by a faithful little friend do not consult their interests by turning their backs on those who have done so well. This is evidently the case with so many of those really sensible ladies, who, having had a WILCOX and GIBBS' MACHINE for so many years, working with such satisfaction, that in seeking for another try the W. and G. AUTOMATIC SILENT, which has all the old good points, with some wonderful improvements in addition.

Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches, scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders that have plagued the sufferers for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produces a clear, healthy, natural condition of the skin. STEEDMAN'S SOOTHING POWDERS FOR CHILDREN CUTTING TEETH.
CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.
The value of this well-known Family Medicine has been largely tested in all parts of the world, and by all grades of society, for upwards of FIFTY YEARS. Its well earned extensive sale has induced SPURIOUS IMITATIONS, some of which, in OUTWARD APPEARANCE, so closely resemble the original as to have deceived many purchasers. The proprietor, therefore, feels it due to the public to give a special caution against the use of such imitations.
Purchasers are therefore requested carefully to observe the four following distinctive characteristics, without which none are genuine:—
1. In every case the words JOHN STEEDMAN, Chemist, Walworth, Surrey, are engraved on the Government stamp affixed to EACH PACKET.
2. Each SINGLE POWDER has directions for the dose, and the words "John Steedman, chemist, Walworth, Surrey," printed thereon.
3. The name Steedman is always spelt with two EE's.
4. The manufacture is carried on solely at Walworth, Surrey.

We first published the Important Notice given below in the Herald of April 17, 1882. The copyists referred to therein, after 6 weeks' study and deliberation, issued their first attempt at copying the notice on May 27, 1882, and not in the first quarter of 1882, as stated by them:—
IMPORTANT NOTICE.
We would again specially urge upon the public the need there is for using every care TO PREVENT MAKING A MISTAKE IN OUR ADDRESS. Other persons of the same surname do not scruple to copy as close as possible our style of address and advertisement, and, whilst they thus acknowledge our success and high position in business, we are anxious that strangers should not be misled and suffer therefrom.
The original old-established CASH SYSTEM FIRM, who adopted this principle more than half a century ago, have ONLY ONE ADDRESS AND PLACE OF BUSINESS, the largest in the colonies. Once visited never mistaken afterwards.
WE WOULD STILL FURTHER CAUTION THE PUBLIC AGAINST BEING MISLED BY COPIES OF OUR IMPORTANT NOTICE, AS IT IS NOW BEING USED BY OTHERS—FOR WHAT PURPOSE THE PUBLIC WILL EASILY SURMISE.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—FRIDAY, JUNE 2.
In Equity.—(Before his Honor the PRIMARY JUDGE.)
NOBBS V. NOBBS.

Mr. C. J. Manning, instructed by Mr. S. C. Brown, for plaintiff; Mr. F. Burton for some defendants, Mr. Coghlan and Mr. Brady for others.

This was a partition suit. The property had been sold, and the matter now came on for further consideration. The legal estate was vested in many persons, some being sui juris, others married women, and others infants.

Mr. Manning moved that these persons might be declared trustees within the meaning of the Trustee Act, and that Mr. P. C. Curtis, the Chief Clerk, might be appointed to convey the property to the purchasers.

His HONOR made the order, remarking that the Court, by the Partition Act, had power to sell the property. That order had been made by the 20th section of the 1852 Trustee Act, 16 Vic., No. 19:—"Wherever the Court has power to make an order vesting the property in a purchaser (that is, an order having the effect of a conveyance or assignment of lands, or having the effect of a release or disposition of any person born or unborn), it shall also be lawful for the Court to appoint a person to convey such lands, and the conveyance of such person so appointed shall have the same effect as a vesting order." Section 11 of the Act of 1853, 17 Vic., No. 4, was to be construed as if it had been incorporated with the Act of 1852. By section 1 of that later Act, where the Court has sold lands, "every person possessed of, or having a contingent interest, being a party to the suit, shall be deemed possessed of it within the meaning of the Trustee Act of 1852; and the Court may make an order vesting the lands in any purchaser, as if the person so possessed had been free from any disability and had duly executed all proper conveyances of such lands." By the interpretation clause of the 1st section of the 1852 Act, the word "convey" so included the performance of all formalities required by law for the validity of such conveyance, and the act to be performed by married women and tenants in tail as if fines had been levied or common recoveries suffered. Under the joint effect of these Acts his Honor was of opinion that he had power to appoint Mr. Curtis to convey the lands, although some of the parties were sui juris, and not under any disability, and also without the necessity for married women making any acknowledgment of the deed.

THE POLLUTION OF THE RIVER AT LIVERPOOL.

At the meeting of the Municipal Council of Liverpool on the 30th ultimo, the following correspondence in reference to the alleged pollution of the river was read:—

"May 25, 1882.

"To the Mayor and Aldermen of Liverpool, New South Wales.

"Gentlemen,—With reference to your letter of the 8th March, calling our attention to an existing nuisance in the river below the dam at Liverpool, and supposed to be partly caused by the drainage flowing from our works, we sent you reply on the 10th March that we could not acknowledge to the drainage from our paper mills contributing to the nuisance or being dangerous to health, as the only drainage flowing from our works are the after boilings of caustic soda, soda ash, and bleaching powder, all well known to be strong disinfectants, not likely to cause unpleasant odours, or to be injurious to health.

"We now have the pleasure to enclose a copy of an analytical report by Mr. Charles Watt, Government Analyst, dated 18th instant, upon the whole of the drainage flowing from our paper mills into the tidal portion of the river.

"We desire to call your particular attention to the first portion of that report, 'That none of these fluids are liable to undergo putrefactive fermentation,' and also to state that in order to comply with the latter portion of Mr. Watt's report, we have at considerable expense provided three large settling tanks to catch 'the dirt commixed with vegetable fibre.' We trust that the prompt steps we have taken will be satisfactory to you and to the inhabitants of Liverpool, and will thank you to give this report and letter the same publicity that you gave the former correspondence on this subject. We are, gentlemen, &c.,

"(Signed) WILLIAMS AND MURRAY."

"May 18, 1882.

"Messrs. Williams and Murray.

"Gentlemen,—I have examined the following samples of waste fluids connected with your paper-making operations at Liverpool, and which products, I was informed, are discharged into the tidal portion of the stream of that town:—No. 1, 'After-boilings of caustic;' No. 2, 'Washings from rag engine;' No. 3, 'Bleach-house drainage.' With reference to these fluids I have now to report as follows:—None of these fluids are liable to undergo putrefactive fermentation. Nos. 1 and 3 were fairly clear, and, with the exception of their injurious action upon fish, may be allowed to continue so to pass away without any fear of nuisance arising therefrom. With respect to No. 2, which contains some dirt commixed with vegetable fibre, I am of opinion that you may be fairly called upon to pass it through a filter bed, so as to arrest matter which might otherwise deposit, before it is allowed to enter the stream.

"(Signed) CHAS. WATT, Government Analyst.

"Memo.—No. 1, after boiling of caustic, 1316.8gr. per gallon; No. 2, washings from rag engine, 270.4gr. per gallon; No. 3, bleach-house drainage, 323.6gr. per gallon."

THE LAW OF LIBEL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your correspondent, "Bush Law," must be suffering from some hallucination. He cites "Lush's Practice" as an authority that libel actions are within the statute of James, viz., 21 Jac. 1, sec. 6. My copy of Lush—Dixon's edition of 1865—gives no countenance whatever to this very novel view of his. (See page 917.) In Folkard's edition of Starkie, at p. 557, I find the following:—"It has been held that the statute of Jac. 1 does not extend to actions of scandal, nor to those where the special damage is the gist of the action, as in the case of slander of title, nor to actions of libel." The authority cited for this last proposition is Hall (? Hale) v. Warner, T., 24 Geo. III., and Tidd 861. The commencing words of the section itself would seem to settle any doubt whether libel actions are within its scope—"that in all actions upon the case for slanderous words, &c.," upon which Chitty's editors comment thus:—"This statute is confined to actions for words spoken of the person. It does not apply (inter alia) to libel: it is confined to actions for words actionable in themselves, or actionable only by reason of their being spoken of the plaintiff in his trade or business." (Citing authorities.) The case cited by "Bush Law," from Crompton, Meeson, and Roscoe (Goodall v. Ensell), does not touch this point; neither does our local Defamation Act, to which he appeals. "Bush Law" is more in his element when he talks about the need of modern legislation on the subject of costs. If he can draw a sensible law to govern this matter, and get it passed, a large number of people will be thankful. I am, &c.,

The R.M.S. Peshawur arrived at the P. and O. Company's wharf on Saturday, at 10.30 a.m., after a somewhat rough passage, from Melbourne, whence she left at daylight on the 1st instant. The following is a report of her voyage from Galle to arrival:—She left Galle on 11th May, at 6 p.m.; the heavy south-westerly swell and squally weather experienced on the two following days indicating the approach of the monsoons or rainy season towards the coast of Ceylon. Crossed the Equator at noon on the 13th instant; light variable airs and very heavy rain, with long southerly swell. On the 14th, in lat. 30° S., the wind set in from the S.E., gradually freshening into the trades. Moderate, with head sea, to the 16th, lat. 12° S., long. 94° E., increasing to a fresh breeze; squally weather and rising sea to lat. 24° S. May 20, blowing a strong breeze with hard squalls and rain and high head sea, ship pitching heavily at times, and taking much water over all forward; speed reduced nine knots, this to the morning of the 22nd, 32° S. lat., 111° E. long.; weather moderating, light breeze and fine, with southerly swell to arrival at King George's Sound. Sunday, May 14, in lat. 4·09 S., long. 88·21 E., spoke the ship Annie Froste, from Point de Galle to Havre, wishing to be reported. Moderate north-westerly winds from the Sound to Glenelg, with southerly swell, and throughout to Melbourne. Left Williamstown on June 1, at 5.30 a.m.; passed Port Phillip Heads at 9 a.m., and Wilson's Promontory at 6 p.m.; Gabo Island, June 2, at 11 a.m., Montagu Island at 6 p.m. Experienced strong southerly winds from Port Phillip Heads to Promontory, increasing to a moderate gale, with very high sea to Cape Howe; from thence decreasing wind and sea, and fine weather to arrival.

Yesterday afternoon the schooner Sea Rip arrived in port, and anchored between Garden Island and the Domain. Having been passed by the medical officer, she was towed up by a small tug, and was followed to her anchorage by the Customs officials and a steam launch conveying Inspector Donoghue and a sergeant of police, who were in readiness to take into custody the alleged murderer of Captain Rolls, who, it will be remembered, was killed by John Smith, his steward, at the Islands a short time since, and the murderer was given into Captain Southgate's custody for transfer to the proper authorities. The inspector having boarded the vessel, presented his warrant to the captain, and he thereupon surrendered Smith, who will be brought up at the Water Police Court to-day. With respect to the voyage hither from Meoka, Captain Southgate has not very much to report upon. After leaving Meoka, on April 26, light northerly winds prevailed along the Solomons, and on to Wreck Reef strong S. and S.E. winds were met. From Wreck Reef to Moreton Island calms and light airs followed, and from Moreton Island to arrival gales were encountered from N., W., and S.W. Captain Southgate reports having met and communicated with the schooner Flora, from Sydney, for Matapeo, with coals, off Cape St. George, New Ireland, on April 29, all well.

The Pride of England, which sailed from this port on the 27th ultimo, for Rotterdam, with a cargo of shale, returned to port again yesterday morning in a sorry plight, having encountered terrific gales under very adverse circumstances, inasmuch as four of the crew were disabled during the storm on Wednesday last. They were rendered totally unfit to be of the slightest service, so that during the dreadful weather encountered on Wednesday, in lat. 35·58 south, lon. 153·9 east, Captain Corriveau had to combat against the elements shorthanded. After having hove-to for several hours the storm, on Wednesday, suddenly increased, blowing away not only the maintopsail, but unfurling several brand-new sails and ripping them away like so much paper. Of course the ship commenced to roll heavily, and mountainous seas broke over the vessel to such a degree that she strained much. Indeed, such had been the degree of straining sustained that it was not until Thursday that the pumps began to answer. After the storm had slightly abated, Captain Corriveau, to use his own expression, attempted to do something to steady his vessel, and tried to set the foresail in order to keep her going before the wind, but no sooner was "the attempt" begun than away went the foresail. Fortuitous circumstances favoured the Pride of England, and on Saturday morning a lower foretopsail and a main topsail were set, and Sydney lights sighted on Saturday evening, the vessel coming to anchor yesterday below Garden Island. The appearance of what may aptly be termed "the wrecked portion of the vessel" is sufficient to convince anybody of the terrible experience passed through by the captain and crew of the Pride of England since they left this port nine days ago. The saloon furniture was strewn about, wooden partitions and front panelling of the cabins smashed, whilst the storeroom is completely wrecked, and the stores all lost. Captain and all hands, as may be imagined after the exhaustion consequent upon the exposure and hardship endured by them, looked very jaded yesterday afternoon. The mate, Joseph Williams, also bears marks of having been dreadfully knocked about, to say nothing of the four disabled seamen, whilst Captain Corriveau is suffering from the consequences of cold and exposure. The vessel is likely to remain in port some time before repairs are effected.

The ship Eastcroft left Liverpool February 23, and met with strong gales down to the Tuscar, which was passed on the 27th, and then heavy gales ensued to the Scilly Islands, in the course of which large quantities of water were shipped, two boats smashed, and tarpaulins washed off the hatchway, but no serious damage was done. The usual Atlantic weather followed to 30° N. 17° W. on March 10, when the north-east trades were taken and carried to the line, which was crossed on March 26 in 26° W. Here a week's calms were had. The S.E. trades were taken in 4° S., and carried to 25° S. and 26° W., and then northerly winds to 41° S. 12° E. Easterly winds lasted thence to the meridian of the Cape, which was crossed in 43° on April 27, the longitude being run down on the parallel of 43°, with strong S. and S.W. breezes, which were maintained to the meridian of the Leuwin on May 21. Light N. and N.W. winds prevailed to the 30th ultimo, when strong S.S.E. breezes increased to a gale, Cape Otway being passed that night. There was a heavy gale across the Promontory, which was passed on the following evening at 6 o'clock, Cape Howe at 8 p.m. on June 1, Jervis Bay at 11 a.m. on the following day, and at 6 p.m. on the 2nd instant the Eastcroft was off Sydney Heads and took the pilot on board, but was blown off land before the arrival of a steamer. A strong southerly gale has been blowing at sea for the past two days, but Captain Rimmer managed to bring his ship off Sydney Heads yesterday afternoon and came to anchor below Garden Island. He reports having spoken the American barque P. J. Carlton on March 19, in lat. 18·42 N., 25° W., bound for Hongkong, 26 days out; Sylhes, barque, on same day, bound from Swansea to Valparaiso, in lat. 15° N., 25° W., 25 days out; Chu San, barque, from Barrow to South Australia, on April 16, in 32·57 S., 18·45 W. In the course of heavy weather, three days ago, an apprentice named Charles Dowsett sustained a broken arm just below the shoulder, but he is progressing well.

The Waitangi, ship, left Lyttelton at 4 p.m. on May 20th, with fresh breezes from S.E. These were carried until the 25th, when dirty weather came on from N.W. After three days' calms a heavy gale set in from N.W. veering to south, and in the course of these storms the vessel was thrown over on her sides, which caused a large quantity of cargo to shift, the hencoops and fowls on deck being washed overboard. Land was made at 8 a.m. yesterday morning off Botany, and the vessel came to anchor below Garden Island.

The Danish steamer Volmer arrived from China yesterday afternoon, having left Takoe on May 9. Captain Heintzelmann reports calm and strong breezes from E.N.E. as far as the Equator, which was crossed on May 21 in long. 149°. Light winds prevailed to the south of New Zealand; the S.E. trades were had in 6° S, and carried to 23° S. A gale from the south, accompanied by enormous seas, was encountered on May 31, and, after taking off slightly on the evening of the 2nd June, it came on again on the morning of the 3rd with hurricane force, but took off after lasting the whole day, and moderated to arrival.

The P.M.S. City of Sydney, which left San Francisco on May 8th, and Honolulu on the 15th, arrived at Auckland on the 29th ultimo. Up to that time the weather was pleasant. She left Auckland for Sydney on the 30th ultimo, arriving here at 11 a.m. yesterday morning. The report furnished officially to us states that she passed the Navigator Islands May 23rd. During night of the 31st a heavy gale of wind prevailed from N.N.E. Since the afternoon of the 1st of June heavy westerly and southerly gale, with very heavy sea. June 3rd, a.m., passed two barks heading to the eastward under lower topsails. Arrived off Sydney Heads June 3rd, 9 p.m.; thick weather all night.

The Konoowarra cleared Port Phillip Heads at 5.30 p.m. on the 2nd instant; rounded Wilson's Promontory at 3.5 a.m., and Gabo Island at 9.30 p.m. on the 3rd; passed Jervis Bay at 11.50 a.m., and entered Sydney Heads at 7.30 p.m. of the 4th. Moderate S. and S.E. winds, with very heavy swell, were met with to Gabo Island, and fresh S. breeze from thence to arrival.

The Natal Queen left Lyttelton on May 20, and had a tolerably good passage till within 300 miles of land, when southerly winds were encountered, in which a portion of the bulwarks were cleared and a boat smashed, but no further damage was done, and the vessel came safely to arrival on Saturday morning.

The Keilawarra (s.) left Rockhampton at 9 a.m. on the 30th May; cleared Keppel Bay at 1.30 p.m.; entered Hervey's Bay at 9.30 p.m., having made a smart run of nine and a half hours; anchored at Sand Cliffs to wait tide; proceeded at 5.45 a.m. 31st., arriving at wharf, Maryborough, at 8 a.m. same day; left at 5.20 a.m. June 1; crossed Wide Bay Bar at 10.30 a.m.; entered Moreton Bay at 2 p.m.; arrived at wharf, Brisbane, at 7.45 p.m., having made a fast run of 14 and a half hours from wharf to wharf; left at 9 a.m. on the 2nd; passed Cape Moreton at 1 p.m. same day; entered Sydney Heads at 1.15 p.m. on the 4th, arriving at wharf, Sydney, at 2.30 p.m. same day. Experienced moderate northerly and easterly winds and fine weather to Moreton Bay; thence strong head winds and high sea till arrival.

Mr. F. W. Jackson is in receipt of a New Zealand cable stating that the Arawata (s.) arrived at Auckland on last Monday morning, and left Russell for Sydney direct at 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon; also that the Hero (s.) left Lyttelton for Sydney direct at 11 o'clock on Friday night.

The Esk (s.), Platypus (s.), Flowerdale, schooner, were anchored in Watson's Bay yesterday.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

Saturday Evening.

The news of the proposal to raise a new loan has come somewhat unexpectedly. The English money market, however, is now very low, and £2,000,000 will probably be raised on very favourable terms. We observe that the loan is to be convertible into inscribed stock. It will be remembered that the Colonial Treasurer in his last financial statement said that the question of the conversion of the outstanding debentures into inscribed stock had occupied the attention of the Government, in consequence of representations having been made to the Agent-General as well as to the financial agents of the Government in London by persons holding colonial securities, who urged the desirability of making provision for their conversion into inscribed stock. Debentures not being registered, were liable to be destroyed by fire, stolen, or otherwise fraudulently obtained, and it is said that many who would prefer New South Wales securities as an investment, especially trustees, were driven by the feeling of insecurity to invest in inscribed stock of other countries. The Treasurer said that it was, therefore, the intention of the Government to ask the necessary Parliamentary sanction for converting our outstanding debentures into inscribed stock, and for the negotiation of future loans in the same form, should it be considered advantageous or desirable to do so. It will thus be seen that English capitalists in connection with this new loan have been informed of the intention of the Government.

By the Liguria (s.), we have London dates to the 28th April. From the Times of that day we take the following:—

"The requirements for the Stock Exchange settlement have slightly increased the demand for short loans, but the rates quoted are about the same as those of yesterday, or from 2 to 2½ per cent. The discount market is unchanged, the rate for three months' bank paper being 2½ per cent., with very few bills offering. On 'Change, with the exception of a little less firmness in the rates for Spain and Austria, there was no change. The French rate on London continues to decline, and is to-day as low as 25 francs 19½ cents. Business continues very inactive on the Stock Exchange, except in a few securities which are influenced by special causes just now. There is, of course, very little disposition to enter into fresh transactions in any of the more important markets until the settlement is concluded, but unless there is a considerable change in the attitude of the public, there does not seem to be any reason to expect an increase in Stock Exchange business even after to-morrow. It was not unnaturally expected that, when money became cheap, speculation would be stimulated to some extent. For the last six weeks, however, money for the purpose of the Stock Exchange has been easy, and yet there has been no material increase in speculation during that period. Prices have been very steady on the whole, it is true, but that simply means that there were always a few operators ready to buy after a trifling decline, just as there were others prepared to sell on a small rise. Since cheap money has not caused an increase in the activity of the Stock Exchange during the last few weeks, it is not reasonable to expect that it should do so now unaided. We have no doubt that part of the inertness of the markets is due to the absence of speculation in Paris, which, while directly affecting the foreign market, affects the other markets indirectly. But this will not entirely account for the phenomenon. The explanation of the matter occasionally afforded, that there is 'no money to invest' because trade is dull, is also inadequate, and, we believe, erroneous in fact. Possibly, however, the capitalists who have been making money lately in trade have hitherto been employing it in enlarging their business. This is obviously being done in some cases. The prices of securities are, moreover, high as compared with most commodities, and as long as that relation continues between the two classes of values, there will be a certain tendency to neglect the one which is appreciated relatively to the other."

The P. and O. Company's steamship Peshawur arrived to-day from London, via Melbourne, with a general cargo.

The Australian Mortgage, Land, and Finance Co., Limited, have received the following telegram from Messrs. Helmuth Schwartze and Co., dated London, 1st instant:—"Wool: Since our last telegram there is no change for the bulk of wools; prices for New Zealand grease are rather easier."

Monday Morning.

The Pacific mail steamship City of Sydney arrived yesterday morning, bringing the English mail via America, and San Francisco dates to the 8th May. Besides other cargo she brings 3069 sacks wheat and 2460 quarter-sacks flour. Her commercial advices confirm the reports of vessels loading with grain for the colonies, the unexpected demand from this quarter of the world having, it seems, caused some sensation in San Francisco. We extract the following from the Commercial List of the 8th May:—

"The past month has been one of considerable activity in the grain market owing to the demand for wheat and the strong market in Europe. The inquiry from Australia, first reported in the Commercial News, created quite a sensation, not only here, but in the East, and the news was not at first believed by some of our contemporaries. The fact that the ship Tabor is loaded with 2100 tons, and lying in the stream waiting for a crew to enable her to clear for Adelaide direct; that the ship Solitaire is loaded with 2169 tons, and barque Jenny Harkness is about loaded, having already 1200 tons on board, for Sydney; that the last steamer for Australia carried several hundred tons, and as much more goes by the bearer of this, is conclusive proof that Australia is taking some of our surplus, and there is still an inquiry in this market for tonnage to follow in the same direction with wheat. Charter rate, £2. Stocks of choice wheat are running low, and it is evident there will be but a light supply carried into the new cereal year, which commences in July. The growing crops are generally looking well, though lack of rain has affected some sections. It is evident a large crop will be harvested, though it is impossible to give anything like a definite statement of the quantity for export. Barley is in light supply, and prices rule high for all kinds. This is true of all descriptions of grain, which must remain firm till the new crops are in market. Under light supplies, pig tin has remained firm, though to date the market has not been active. Fruit packing has not yet commenced, and salmon canning is very backward, owing to the small run of fish in the principal rivers. On Wednesday the catch on the Columbia River averaged eight fish to the boat, and on Thursday six, against from 30 to 75 per boat the same days of the season last year. The pack on the Sacramento River is about one-fifth of what it was at date last year. Four firms in this city now control the entire pack of the Columbia and Sacramento, with the exception of one cannery, and in view of the discouraging reports and the ability to work in concert, it is evident that a strong bull movement will be inaugurated. If salmon is consumed in as large quantities this year as heretofore, little difficulty will be experienced in placing the whole pack at full figures. The stock of old is exhausted, unless some small lots remain in jobbers' hands. The last in first hands was shipped to Liverpool by the St. Paul. Coal—to arrive, Australian, 6·25 dollars to 6·50 dollars; spot, Australian, 6·75 dollars. This week shows no improvement over last, at least in the prices obtained. The volume of business was greater, several cargoes being ordered for early loading. Sales were principally made of Australian coals, leaving the vessels less freight than they could procure from Nanaimo or Departure Bay on coal. The season is now far enough advanced to ensure us low prices on coal the entire year."

Closing quotations are:—Wheat, firm at 1·65 to 1·67½ dollar. Flour: Jobbing rates as follows: Best city extras, 5·25 to 5·37½ dollars; superfine, 4 to 4·50 dollars; interior extras, 4·25 to 4·75 dollars; interior superfine, 4 to 4·25 dollars per barrel. Hops: Medium, 16 to 20 cents; choice, 22 to 25 cents; Washington Territory, 17 to 19 cents; Oregon, 17 to 19 cents per lb. Salmon: Columbia River, 1·35 dollar; Sacramento, 1·25 to 1·30 dollar. Sydney pig tin, 28 to 30 cents; quicksilver, 38 to 39 cents. The North Star is on the berth from Humboldt Bay for Sydney with lumber, the Majestic is chartered from Puget Sound for Australia with lumber, and the Jeremiah Thompson is chartered for Melbourne from Puget Sound.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

MONDAY, JUNE 5, 1882.

The deputation to the Government in respect of the wharfage difficulty has completed the circuit of the controversy by giving us the Government side of the question. The draymen began it, and since then wharfingers, merchants, casual consignees, professional and amateur engineers, and general theorists have all had their say. Amid all the diversity of opinion, and all the excuses, there is one point on which there is perfect unanimity, and that is, that whoever is to blame, or whether anybody is to blame at all, the present wharfage accommodation is not abreast of the present necessities of the port. The complaint made by the carriers was a just one. They cannot at present do their share of the work at the maximum of expedition and at the minimum of cost to their clients. Old Sydney grew up under a state of things totally different from that which now prevails. When craft were small, a comparatively narrow breadth of water frontage was sufficient for the purposes of a wharf. Darling Harbour did the trade of the city for many years with no further ground of complaint than arose from the steepness of the streets by which the wharfs were approached. It was certainly an oversight in those days that a broad street was not laid out around the water's edge; but the future greatness of the city was not then suspected, and the streets were wider than Thames-street in London is to the present day. So long as people get along pretty comfortably they do not clamour for reform; it is when there comes a blockade that the cry arises for more room. We have now reached a state of things in which we have large ships bringing goods for a great many consignees, and which unload with great rapidity; and the old-fashioned appliances are no longer equal to the new demand, and on studying the problem we find that a large number of the private wharfs are too jammed for room to be able to furnish first-class accommodation.

The construction of the Circular Quay was a bold attempt on the part of the then Government to meet the necessities of the case; and it had the effect of providing a wharf far superior to any that then existed in the port; and it afforded very great accommodation to shipowners. In fact, there was a time when the demand was over-supplied, and it was the want of sufficient business and sufficient interest on their investment that first led to the combination among wharfingers. That combination somewhat embarrassed the Government by so reducing the rent of the Circular Quay as to force it not only to be a wharf-owner, but to go into competitive wharfage business. That stimulated rivalry on the part of the private wharfingers, and, conjoined with the increase of trade, led many of them to make great improvements. Some of the private wharfs have been greatly improved, and offer practical convenience to a ship greater than are to be found at a Government wharf. The Government has been also stimulated to go forward in the march of improvement. Plans were made several years ago, under the impression that the great thing wanted was to increase the berthing space. The Minister lays the blame on Parliament for nothing having been done, on the ground that though the money was voted, no decision was arrived at as to the material of which the wharf was to be constructed. In one respect the delay has been fortunate, because, had the first scheme been carried out, it would no longer have been suitable to the wants of the port. The excitement originated in the alleged difficulty of berthing the Sobraon, and it was to deal with vessels of that class and a little larger that the first plan was framed. We have now to provide for vessels like the Orient and the Austral. Whether we have yet reached the limit of size no one can say. Short wharfs always run the risk of being out of date, and a continuous quay is the only one that is sure to be long enough. But then that requires long wharf frontage, and where space is limited the system of jetties is the more economical. The Government surpasses all private wharfingers in the length of frontage it possesses, and in the easy gradient by which its wharf is approached. The improvements recently made on the eastern side of the quay leave little to be desired so far as the facing of the wharf is concerned. What are still wanted are covered sheds, railway communication, and lifting appliances. All these, the deputation were informed, are planned and will soon be brought into existence. When that is done, the Government will be in possession of by far the most commodious wharf in the colony, and one which will, if well managed, meet the requirements of all vessels loading and unloading there. Of course private wharfingers will still do their best to draw ships to their own wharfs, and they will be stimulated by the competition still further to improve their own appliances. The one thing they cannot do is to make more room, but they can build covered sheds, they can lay down tramways on their jetties, so as to run the goods at once into the adjoining stores, and in several cases they can by means of lifts raise goods to the level of a higher street behind, and so get over the difficulty of a steep access to the water frontage. The question is whether this sort of competition left to work out its results will answer present and prospective purposes. It seems a strange thing for merchants to distrust competition, and yet in this matter the Chamber of Commerce inclines to the opinion that a Government monopoly would be the best. There is no doubt whatever that if the Government would resume its water frontage, and make a splendid quay all round, it would be one of the noblest city improvements that could be effected; but the question of cost is very serious. We have seen in the case of the land at Pyrmont what claims are made even for unimproved land, and we have not yet seen how juries will settle the huge difference between the estimates of the private owner and the Government valuator. It would be a much more serious thing to buy up the Darling Harbour frontage than the Pyrmont frontage; and the scheme would also necessitate a goods railway all round the water's edge. Mr. MURRAY thinks that, large as the expense is, it would pay; but that all depends upon what the cost will really be. We can calculate the present trade of the port; we can make a fair estimate of the future trade; we can calculate pretty fairly the cost of the works; the uncertain element is the cost of resumption. If the Government had a practical monopoly of the wharfage, the brokers' ring would be at an end, and a paying charge could be enforced; and as the cost of cartage might, under a better system, be greatly reduced, the charges for wharfage might be increased, without any additional burden being thrown upon the importer.

It would seem that in a good many particulars matters affecting the defence forces of the colonies do not go on as smoothly as could be wished. On several occasions in this colony we have had illustrations of the disadvantages of the composite system which prevails, and rumour has it that one of these was witnessed the other day at the levee. On occasions of this kind the custom has been to give the place of honour to the Imperial forces, to place the officers of the Staff and Permanent Force and those of the Volunteer Force on the same footing, and to allow the Naval Brigade to bring up the rear. Why it has been thought expedient to put the Naval Brigade behind is not very clear, but to most people the arrangement by which the Permanent and the Volunteer Forces were placed upon an equality will appear a sensible one. For reasons which the uninitiated will deem to be insufficient, this order was departed from at the last levee. On that occasion the officers of the Staff and the Permanent Force went first, those of the Naval Brigade followed, those of the Volunteer Force coming last. To people who have nothing to do with any of the forces, and who attach little importance to matters of social precedence, such innovations will be of little consequence. The parties concerned, however, regard them in a different light, nor can we wonder at it. The forms which are observed at official reunions are small things in themselves, many of the motives which lie behind them are small also, but to those who are immediately affected by the usages of vice-regal society such things are felt to be of considerable moment. On ceremonial occasions, very great people are in the habit of taking umbrage at exceedingly trivial occurrences.

In the abstract it matters very little whether a particular body of men enter the GOVERNOR'S presence first or last, but in the concrete it is held to matter a very great deal. The members of the Legislative Council, for example, would think that something had happened if they were placed behind those of the Legislative Assembly, and those of either the Council or the Assembly would decline to follow the members of the Bar. The officers of the Volunteer Force have the weaknesses in regard to such matters which are possessed by other people, and they desire to know why they should be held to be inferior to those of the Permanent Force, and it is not unnatural that they should ask this question. It may be that there is a good reason for the new order of procedure, but it will be generally felt that innovations of this description ought not to be made without a good reason. The too frequent effect of such changes in public ceremonials is to create alienation and division, and in regard to our defence forces especially it is desirable that this should be avoided. It is needful, above all things, that the social prejudices and conceits which play so active a part elsewhere should not be found among the men who wear her Majesty's uniform. The Permanent and the Volunteer Forces, if called upon to fight at all, will have to fight side by side, and there seems to be no good reason why they should not present themselves at Government House side by side.

In one or two of his last letters, our Tasmanian correspondent has detailed some rather serious differences which mischievous spirits have been doing their best to create among the defence forces of that colony. In Tasmania the quarrel is a Volunteer quarrel only, but the important point to be noticed is that the imbroglio has been brought about by the intrusion of social prejudices into the affairs of the citizen army. The outcome of the Tasmanian quarrel may well supply a warning to the framers of hasty or ill-advised arrangements here. Our correspondent tells us that, after being lectured on their untoward conduct, certain officers consented to withdraw resignations, which they had tendered because a captain who seems to have been socially offensive was not got rid of. But the first act of the Major after withdrawing his resignation "was to leave the city for a period extending over the Birthday anniversary, but before doing so he committed the command of the regiment to the captain who had gone with him into the exile of resignation, the previous commission by the Colonel-Commandant to another officer remaining uncancelled, and the Major himself not having been purified of his suspension." Another result of the quarrel was that the rank and file refused to turn out at the levee on the 24th as a guard of honour, and some of the other officers engaged in a canvass for recruits to form a guard. Of the expected 100, about 70 declined, and there seems no power to compel attendance. Our correspondent asks whether "the same dilemma might not occur were the Russian Admiral coming up the Derwent on a less friendly mission than that which made him recently drop anchor here." That is just the question which differences among our defence forces naturally suggest. It should be the aim of every section of the force to discourage such differences, as well as that of those in authority to avoid what might have the effect of producing them.

In the course of business at the Water Police Court on Friday morning, Mr. MARSH commented upon the fact that two police officers —Senior-constable COSTIGAN and Constable WILLETT—had prevented the commission of a crime. In effect he said—and said with reason—that to have prevented a crime was better than to punish it; and his words may well be taken to heart by every man in the police force. In this particular instance two constables saw a man, at 3 o'clock in the morning, peep from the gate of a gentleman's residence, and they heard the house-dogs bark as if alarmed at something. They suspected, and their suspicion proved correct, that he was a burglar, and, after some trouble, arrested him. The fact of their arresting him is not in itself surprising; but it becomes so when one considers that some constables find it more congenial, and, it may be, more profitable, to punish crime than to check it. An opinion extremely pernicious in its effect, but nevertheless prevalent in the force, is that promotion depends very much upon the number of convictions a man obtains, and of course the more important these convictions are, for so much the more do they count. The effect of this opinion may be traced to the MAHOOD cases, which showed to what a length an unprincipled policeman might be induced to go in swearing away the liberty of innocent people, merely that he might gain a reputation for efficiency. Luckily such as he are not common, but still a much better man than MAHOOD might well have been tempted not to nip a sensational burglary in the bud, but to let it go on just sufficiently far to enable him to pose before the public as a hero, and before his superior officers as a worthy object for advancement. COSTIGAN and WILLETT were above this. They saw that the man had committed an offence as it was, and at once interfered to prevent his plunging into more serious crime, and terrifying a whole family. Not long ago, in one of our police courts, when a man was being tried for a shocking crime, an officer of justice calmly deposed that he had seen the deed committed throughout, and that he did not interfere until it was consummated. The solicitor for the defence censured him sharply for this, and asked him if he did not feel himself to be accessory to the crime which he saw, and did not try to prevent. The witness did not seem to realize the point of the reproach, for he answered stolidly that if he had interfered too soon he would have had no case. He would have had no case, but two people would have been stopped from committing a crime, and this would have been a hundred times better for the country than was the imprisonment of the man then on trial. Under somewhat similar circumstances COSTIGAN and WILLETT acted in a diametrically opposite manner to what their brother constable did, and he and all in the force who think with him may, with advantage to themselves and to the public, take to heart the lesson Mr. MARSH has read them.

We remarked, some time ago, upon cases in the police courts where the conflict of evidence was so direct that the interests of justice could not be satisfied by the mere determination of the point then in issue. If half-a-dozen witnesses swear before a magistrate that a thing is white, and half-a-dozen more swear that it is black, it is open to the magistrate who observes their demeanour, and has opportunities of forming an opinion upon their comparative credibility, to decide upon the acceptance of either the one representation or the other. But when he so decides, is it not clear that something more should be done? When men go into court to swear that black is white, the tendency of their action is to mislead the Judge, and to defeat justice; and although that tendency may be itself defeated in some cases, it may take effect in others. At the Central Police Court, on Thursday, a charge was made against two constables. It was supported by the evidence of the prosecutor and several witnesses. That evidence was flatly contradicted by the defendants themselves. The case was dismissed, and the presiding magistrate said the Bench did not believe the witnesses for the prosecution. We have not the means possessed by the magistrates of judging whether the truth lay on the side of the policeman or on that of their accusers. But clearly it could not lie on both. If the magistrate was right in plainly stating that the Bench did not believe one set of witnesses, the matter ought not to end there. The effect of proceedings like this, if they are not carried to a further stage, will be to prejudice the cause of truth and justice by showing that it is a light thing to trifle with either. There is another point worthy of notice. The constables were charged with having falsely represented themselves as travellers with a view to obtaining drinks in prohibited hours. They denied that they had made this false representation, but admitted that they had gone to the public-house dressed in workmen's clothes and called for drinks. It will not be denied that the practice of dressing policemen in unofficial clothes is legitimate, and may be useful for purposes of observation. But is it legitimate that an officer of the law should call upon anybody to break the law? Would a peace-officer be justified in challenging a man to fight so that he might arrest him for an assault if the challenge were accepted? Zeal in the police is a good thing, but there is scope for it in other directions without expending it in inviting people to law-breaking.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE Egyptian question is just now in a state of transition, and the news respecting the course of events is necessarily of a somewhat indefinite character. According to a statement made by Sir Charles Dilke to the House of Commons, there is reason to believe that all the Powers who have been invited will accept the proposal for a Conference for the purpose of considering and dealing with the crisis. In the meanwhile, Arabi Bey has given guarantees for order, and the Sultan has given reassurances to the Khedive. It will be well perhaps for the Egyptians if the question is settled by the intervention of diplomacy instead of being solved by blood and iron.

SIR HENRY PARKES, it will be seen by our cablegrams of this morning, is to visit Berlin, Belgium, and Paris. At Brussels and Antwerp he is to be banquetted. It is hardly to be expected, therefore, that he will return to the colony by the mail that is due here on the 20th of July, for in order to do that he will have to leave London on the 15th instant, and come right through without delay; and it will be recollected that he has some postponed business to transact both in Canada and the United States. The succeeding mail via San Francisco is not due at Sydney until August 26. Sir Henry has lately been in Birmingham, where he has vindicated the loyalty of the colony, and assured his interrogators, of whom he appears to have had many, that the people of New South Wales are perfectly content with their present relation to the Empire, and that they do not want any greater measure of freedom than they now enjoy.

GUISEPPE GARIBALDI, we learn by cablegram, died at Caprera, of bronchitis. His death is reported to have caused profound sensation in Italy, to have plunged the nation in mourning, and suspended business. He was 75 years of age. In another column we publish a short biographical sketch of this distinguished man.

THE cricket match between the Australian Eleven and the County of Lancashire was resumed on Friday and concluded on Saturday. More than ordinary interest attaches to the result, as the home team is reckoned one of the most formidable that the Australians were likely to encounter, and most of the judges predicted a defeat for them. The county team made 118 runs in their first innings, or 114 less than the Australians in their first. Following on, they put together 269, to which Barlow, the professional player, who was in great form, contributed 66 not out. A. G. Steel, who played a fine innings, was run out when he had scored 50. The bowling of Spofforth is described as splendid, taking no less than six of the Lancashire wickets in the first innings for 48 runs. The fielding of the Australians was also very good. The Australians had 129 to make, and this they did with the loss of six wickets, winning perhaps the most eventful contest of the series by four wickets.

AMONGST the miscellaneous items of news by this morning's cablegrams, it will be seen that as the wool sales progress prices continue firm. The ironworkers' strike at Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, is extending, and already a serious disturbance has taken place. The refrigerating apparatus of the Potosi collapsed, and the vessel landed her consignments of fresh stores at Plymouth. It is proposed to convert the New South Wales loan into inscribed stock.

THE Pacific Mail Company's steamship City of Sydney, with the English mails, via San Francisco, to April 20, did not arrive in Port Jackson until 11 o'clock yesterday morning, nearly a day behind contract time. She would most likely have arrived within contract time had she not met with unusually heavy weather between Auckland and this port. She was detained at San Francisco two days, awaiting the English mails, but made the time up before reaching New Zealand. The delay at the former port until the 8th May enabled her to bring on full particulars respecting the Phœnix Park outrage in Dublin, which took place on May 6. These particulars we reprint in another column. The horrible nature of the crime, and the excitement it occasioned, both in Great Britain and America, have been to some extent made known here by our cable messages; but the fuller accounts we publish elsewhere explain many things which were necessarily left somewhat obscure by our cablegrams, and the account cannot fail to be read with melancholy interest. By the City of Sydney we have received some important information in regard to the breadstuffs market of California, and the loading, at San Francisco, of ships with wheat for the Australian markets. This matter will be found more fully referred to in our monetary and commercial article.

BY the steamship Liguria, of the Orient line, we have mails from London seven days later than those brought by the P. and O. Company's steamship Peshawur, which were delivered on Thursday morning, and eight days later than the mails by the San Francisco mailboat, the City of Sydney, which will be delivered this morning. The Liguria's mails were delivered from the General Post Office on Saturday morning. The Liguria delivered her London mails for Adelaide in 31 days, and those for Melbourne in 33 days. We received our files on Saturday morning, overland from Melbourne, in 35 days from London. Had Sydney been connected with Adelaide by rail, as it will no doubt be some day, the time of transit between London and Sydney would have been still further abridged. In another page we publish a quantity of English news to as late a date as April 28. The Liguria is expected in Port Jackson to-night.

WITH regard to a discussion on the subject of tramway construction which took place on Thursday, at a meeting of the Sydney Municipal Council, we are officially informed that in no case has any work in connection with the tramways which has affected the municipality of Sydney been undertaken without the officers of the municipality having, out of courtesy to their position, been first consulted. The Tramway Act gives power to the Government to construct tramways on the level of streets, but if in any case the levels are to be permanently altered the alteration is to be made by arrangement with the City Council. But even when the permanent levels have not been altered, and when there has been no intention to alter them, work has not been carried out without intimation being made to the council. Some time since this matter of not obtaining the sanction of the corporation, and carrying out works without their knowledge or consent, was brought under notice, and inquiry respecting it was made. It was stated that the levels of Elizabeth-street and George-street West had been altered without the knowledge or consent of the corporation; but the Engineer for Existing Lines stated repeatedly that no step was taken until an agreement had been arrived at between himself and the engineer of the corporation. Mr. Mountain stated that this charge had been made without his being acquainted with it, and that both Mr. Cowdery and himself were in perfect accord with regard to the levels. Mr. Mountain went so far as to say that the alterations were not only being made with his concurrence, but at his request. With reference to the statement made at the council meeting by the Mayor, that certain land forming a portion of the water reserve at Randwick had been taken as a place for the erection of workshops without the concurrence or knowledge of the council, it must have been made in forgetfulness of the fact that in a written communication, addressed to the town clerk, on 3rd March, 1881, the subject was brought under the attention of the council, and that in a letter from the town clerk, dated 9th March, 1881, the Commissioner for Railways was informed that the Mayor had consented to this ground being used for the purpose indicated. So careful was the Department that nothing should be done, even after the receipt of this permission, to interfere with the water reserve, that when in was found necessary to erect other conveniences on the ground the council were again written to on the subject, and the correspondence showed that the Mayor again approved of what the officers of the Department desired to do.

THE mail steamship City of Sydney brings 40 steam motors for the New South Wales tramways.

MESSRS. TURNER AND HENDERSON have now on view at their establishment, Hunter-street, a large collection of ornamental bronzes from Italy and Vienna, just imported by them. These are all designed on famous models, either antique or of the Renaissance period, and are very graceful in form. Among them are a great many beautiful vases and tazzas, some of the latter bearing in the centre classic heads in very high relief. Some salvers are especially curious in that the body is of porcelain with painted figures in Pompeian style and the rim of bronze. There are several wine-coolers, the most beautiful being cast of almost white metal, with an exquisite design of Cupids in low relief. Several of the articles are touched here and there with the green oxyde used to imitate the rust of ages, but for the most part the bronze is uncoloured. The candelabra shown are very artistic in form, and the minor articles—barometers, matchstands, &c.—are well designed. The bronzes are well worth inspection.

THE monthly meeting of the National Shipwreck Relief Society of New South Wales was held, at the Exchange, on Friday. Present—Captain Hixson, R.N. (in the chair), Captains Brown, Bloomfield, and Banks, and Messrs. Storey, Buzacott, and Buckland, and also the secretary and treasurer. The collector reported that the receipts from various sources since last meeting had been £323 11s. 3d. An application for relief was received from Captain Lopez, of the schooner Prima Donna, and it was decided to vote him the sum of £20 10s. Consideration of an application for relief made by Mrs. Rolls, widow of the late master of the Annie Chyran, was postponed until the circumstance of the case had been investigated. Captain J. Stollery, master of the wrecked vessel Vindex, applied for relief, and the sum of £20 was granted. The Rev. A. Gardiner, M.A., wrote with reference to the circumstances of Mrs. A. Robertson, wife of the master of the Southern Cross, which left this port for the South Sea Islands some time ago, and has never been heard of since. A grant of £100 was made for Mrs. Robertson. The heroism displayed by Master Cavill, 11 years, on the 2nd May, when he saved the life of Mr. Scrutton, was brought under the notice of the society, and it was resolved to award Master Cavill the silver medal of the society. The courage displayed by Miss Taylor, daughter of Dr. Taylor, on the 22nd May, in saving the life of Miss Tuckwell, was also brought under notice, and the secretary was requested to make inquiries with respect to the rescue. A resolution was unanimously passed, conveying the best thanks of the committee to Mr. Thomas Walker, of Uralla, for his noble donation of £400 to the funds of the institution.

ON Saturday afternoon a picnic, at which about 100 ladies and gentlemen were present, was held at Correy's Gardens, Botany, to celebrate the opening of tramway communication to that suburb. Amongst the visitors were the Hon. J. Sutherland and Messrs. J. Davies, A. R. Fremlin, W. T. Poole, and H. G. Wright, M.L.A. At 3 o'clock luncheon was served, Mr. J. Geddes occupying the chair and Mr. Walter Bradley the vice-chair. Several toasts were proposed and responded to, and the proceedings throughout were enjoyable.

MR. M. J. M'LAUGHLIN gave a lantern lecture on the Paris Exhibition at the Mechanics' School of Arts, Pitt-street, on Saturday evening. There was a large attendance, and Mr. Dowling presided. A number of excellent photographic views were thrown upon a screen, and terse descriptions of the majority of them were given by Mr. M'Laughlin. The entertainment was a very enjoyable one.

BISHOP SARGENT, who has charge of a mission in Southern India, intends lecturing in the Protestant Hall, this evening, and in the Newtown Town Hall to-morrow evening. He has the reputation of being eloquent and impressive, and one of his objects in lecturing here is to exert his powers in soliciting assistance for his mission.

THERE is at last a probability of the Pyrmont Bridge-road difficulty being settled. The street at present is in a disgraceful condition. The Glebe Council have offered to take it over from the Government provided the latter will kerb and gutter it, settle the vexed question of alignment, and place the road in a proper state of repair. Sir Wigram Allen has received a reply to a letter forwarded by him to the Works Department, stating that the matter will receive early attention.

THE operations at Wentworth Park towards giving it an appearance worthy of its name are being fast proceeded with. The ground is nearly all levelled, and walks are being made in various directions. An ornamental pond is also in a forward state, and a cricket ground, which it is asserted will be equal in point of completeness to anything of the kind near the city, is to be provided. It is not yet grassed over, but the certainty is felt that it will be suitable for playing on before the spring. Some of the other improvements are a bowling-green, which now requires only rolling and mowing, and grounds which are intended for archery, lawn-tennis, croquet, and other games of a similar character, and which are expected to be completed by next summer. The trustees intend that each game permitted to be played on the park shall proceed under the direction of a committee, and that persons desirous of participating in it shall only be allowed to do so under certain restrictions. They have not yet decided what powers to confer on the committees, but will do so at an early date, and also demand that the restrictions are prepared with the view of preventing damage to the park. It is considered that certain difficulties may prevent the erection of buildings of any character on the land; but even though these prove unsurmountable, the present operations, when completed, will impart to the park an appearance which, so far as beauty is concerned, will be a marked contrast to that it presented when known as Blackwattle Swamp. Trenching is being proceeded with for the purpose of planting trees, but from the peculiar nature of the ground the question of their flourishing is problematical, it being apprehended that the effects of the salt water which flowed over the swamp before it was reclaimed may prove prejudicial to their success.

THE ensign of H.M.C.S. Wolverene was at half mast on Saturday out of respect to the memory of Mr. John Happs, R.N., chief engineer of the vessel, who died in St. Vincent's Hospital at half-past 5 o'clock that morning. Mr. Happs joined the Wolverene in 1876, and remained connected with her until she was handed over to the Government of New South Wales. He was one of the officers then recommended for appointment by the Government of this colony. Mr. Happs first complained of illness on Saturday week, and next day it was considered desirable to remove him to St. Vincent's Hospital. The disease from which he suffered was pleurisy, and notwithstanding the skill and attentiveness of the doctors of the institution it advanced, and he succumbed to it on Saturday morning. The late Mr. Happs will be buried with naval honours this afternoon, the procession moving from St. Vincent's Hospital.

CAPTAIN SOUTHGATE, of the Sea Rip, on arriving at Sydney yesterday, was waited on by the Water Police officials, who presented their authority to receive into custody John Smith, who is charged with the murder of Captain Reels, of the Annie C. Lynn, at Mekao. The prisoner, who is a native of Quebec, was then formally given into the custody of Inspector Donoughue and a sergeant of the Water Police force, who at once conveyed him ashore in a steam launch. He will be brought before the magistrates at the Water Police Court this morning, and after the depositions have been read over and other formal proceedings gone through, the police will apply for his committal to Darlinghurst, awaiting trial on the capital charge.

OWING probably to the uninviting state of the weather the traffic on the Botany tram line yesterday was not nearly so great as on the previous Sunday. In order to accommodate the public, trams were started for Botany at intervals of 20 minutes during the afternoon, and there was none of the overcrowding observable on former occasions. The majority of the male portion of the passengers on arriving at their destination at once made their way to the Sir Joseph Banks Hotel, where they were admitted upon affirming that they were bona-fide travellers all the way from Sydney. During the afternoon the bar and private parlours were crowded, and the half-dozen waiters who were in attendance were kept busy until dusk. The most objectionable feature of a trip to Botany on a Sunday is that a number of roughs, who go out there simply for the purpose of drinking, return to town a good deal the worse for liquor, and offend the respectable passengers by uproarious conduct and the use of disgusting language. This was the case last evening, and the same thing will be repeated every week until the police authorities take some steps to punish the offenders.

A LARGE number of passengers who were travelling by Waverley trams on Saturday evening experienced the vexation of having their arrival at their destinations unnecessarily delayed for a period of 25 minutes. It appears that one tram left Waverley at about 20 minutes to 8 o'clock, and another left Sydney at about the same time. These trams should have reached the Begg-street (Paddington) loop at five or six minutes past 8 o'clock. The tram from Waverley, which had a large number of passengers, reached the loop in due time; but as there was only a single line between that point and Darlinghurst, and as the up-tram had the prior right to use that line, the conductor of the Waverley tram adhered to a regulation by awaiting the arrival of the other tram. After waiting for about 20 minutes a number of the passengers became so impatient that they got out of the cars and started to complete the journey on foot. Five minutes later the tram which had caused the detention was seen coming up the hill, with that which had started from town 25 minutes later, close upon its heels. Enquiries were subsequently made, and it was ascertained that the "staff" which is used between Begg-street and Botany-street had been carried into town by one of the earlier trams. What is termed a "staff" is a circular piece of metal which is used on all single lines in order to ensure that two trams going in opposite directions shall not occupy any such single line at one time.

A FATAL accident occurred on the Botany tramline on Saturday evening. It seems that the tram which left Botany at 20 minutes to 7 o'clock came as far as what is known as Gardener's-lane loop, and, having made a brief stoppage, started in resumption of its journey. A man named James Hamblet appears to have caught hold of the guard iron, and to have attempted to jump on to one of the cars. The engine-driver, it is stated, was stopping the motor at the time, but Hamblet unfortunately fell between the motor and a car before that could be done, and one of the fore wheels of the latter passed over and crushed his skull. The engine was brought to a stand before the next wheel of the car reached the unfortunate man's head, and it was found that death had been instantaneous. The body of the deceased was at once drawn off the line and conveyed to the Half-way House, Botany-road. Mr. Hamblet was 53 years of age, and was foreman at Messrs. Hume and Pegrum's glass works, at Botany. He has left a widow and a family of children, who reside at Botany.

A BOY named Joseph Johnston was taken to the hospital yesterday, when it was found that he was suffering from burns on the face and one arm. He stated that he was lighting a fire, when he accidentally got burnt. The burns were dressed by Dr. Clayworth.

A FEW days ago a man named Thomas Kelly, residing at Shellharbour, was thrown from the box of a coach which he was driving, when the wheels passed over one of his legs, fracturing both of the lower bones. The accident occurred on the mountains between Campbelltown and Wollongong. The sufferer has since been admitted into the hospital.

A COACHMAN, named Matthew Healey, fell down a flight of stairs at Maguire's Hotel, at the corner of Bourke and Liverpool streets, on Saturday evening, and received a contused wound, three inches in length, on the top of the head. He was conveyed to the hospital, and admitted by Dr. Muskett, who dressed and stitched the wound. A woman, named Julia O'Neil, a resident of Gould-street, was also admitted yesterday, suffering from a lacerated forehead. She told Dr. Clayworth, who dressed the wound, that she had fallen down stairs.

A MAN named William Croft, a cook, employed at the Monaro Hotel, Woollcomoolloo, was found dead in his bed at half-past 6 o'clock on Saturday evening. Croft had complained of being unwell, and went to his room at half-past 3 o'clock. When the daughter of the landlord went to call him for tea, however, she found that he was dead. Deceased had frequently complained that he suffered from indigestion and rheumatism.

A BOARD and lodging-house keeper named Frederick Hunter, residing in Erskine-street, was taken to the hospital on Saturday, when it was found that he was suffering from some severe wounds which, he stated, were inflicted by a boarder. Mr. Hunter had an incised wound in the region of the left jugular vein, from which there had been considerable hæmorrhage, and also wounds on his forehead and scalp.

TWO men, who had received injuries by falling from buildings in course of erection, died on Saturday and Sunday. The first case was that of a man named Joseph Baugh, a resident of Lyndhurst-street, Glebe, who, on May 20th, fell from the scaffolding of a building in course of erection on the Pyrmont Bridge-road. When picked up Baugh was found to have received very severe injuries. He was conveyed to the hospital, where he died on Saturday morning. The other case was that of a man named George M'Donald, a plumber, who, while employed on a new building in Jones-street, Ultimo, on Saturday morning, fell and received severe internal injuries. M'Donald was conveyed to his home, No. 615, Harris-street, Ultimo, and attended by Dr. Hansard, but died at 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

SHORTLY before midnight on Saturday, a boat containing a number of firemen belonging to a steamship was capsized in Sydney Cove. The firemen belonged to the steamship Lusitania, lying in Neutral Bay, and were being conveyed thither when the boat by some means overturned. About 9 or 10 men were precipitated into the water. The occurrence was witnessed by some of the crew of the Peshawur (s.), and a boat was at once launched and sent off to the rescue. A number of other boats also went to render assistance. The chief cook of the Peshawur, Mr. Baker, noticing a man struggling in the water, secured two life buoys, and swimming to the man, succeeded in bringing him to the shore. This man was taken on board the Ly-ee-Moon, where he received every attention. All the other men were rescued by boats, and were taken to the Sailors' Home, where they stayed during the remainder of the night.

THE bodies of two men were found floating in the waters of the harbour on Saturday morning. One was found about 10 o'clock, under the wharf on the west side of Circular Quay, and was subsequently identified as that of a man named Thomas Brown, whose widow and children reside in Surry Hills. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition. The other body was an hour later, found floating near the ship Glen Darnel, which arrived from London on Friday, and was lying in Neutral Bay. The body was observed floating past the vessel by some of the crew, and they drew the attention of a waterman to it. He got the body, and on taking it alongside the vessel it was found that it was that of a seaman named John Johnston. It is stated that Johnston was sick and therefore off duty, and that he was last seen alive at half-past 10 o'clock, when he was standing on a spar on the deck of the Glen Darnel. How Johnston got into the water is a mystery.

"A BILL for the Better Protection of Women and Children in England from Crimes of Violence" has been introduced into the House of Commons by Mr. T. D. Sullivan, Mr. Justin M'Carthy, Mr. Sexton, and Mr. Richard Power. It proposes that persons convicted of assaults on women may be exposed in a public pillory, the words "Woman-beater" or "Wife-beater to be placed on a board over the pillory. On a second offence within three years the offender may be whipped. The Act is not to apply to Scotland.

THE AUSTRALIAN ELEVEN IN ENGLAND.

[BY CABLE.]

(REUTER'S SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, JUNE 2.

The match between the Australians and the County of Lancashire Eleven was resumed to-day at Manchester. There was a large attendance, notwithstanding that the weather was cold and inclement. The wicket also was not in good order. The home team resumed their innings, Barlow and D. G. Steel, the not-out men of the previous day, going to the wickets. The former was caught when he had scored 28. Steel was bowled for 19. With the exception of Royle, who scored 14, and Watson, with 15, none of the others made any stand. The innings closed for 118, or 141 less than their opponents, and the county eleven were consequently called upon to follow their innings. In the second innings of the Lancashire team Hornby and Barlow were the first representatives for the county. The former was soon disposed of, but the professional made a grand stand, and at the close of the day's play he had scored 55, not out. A. G. Steel also played a fine innings, and when he had scored 50 he was run out. A better stand was now made against the bowling, which was excellent, Royle having scored 30 was caught by the bowler. Briggs with 17, and Watson, not out, 14, were the other principal scorers. When the stumps were drawn 213 runs had been scored for seven wickets. The fielding of the Australians was very good, and the bowling of Spofforth was splendid. The following are the scores :—

Australian Bowling Analysis.—Spofforth, 6 wickets, 48 runs; Palmer, 3 wickets, 64 runs.

JUNE 3.

There was again a large attendance to-day, and great interest was shown in the match. Owing to rain, the wicket was not so lively as on the previous day. The weather was showery. Barlow added 11 to his score and carried out his bat for a well-earned 63. Pilling contributed 27, and Watson 18, the innings closing for 269, leaving the Australians 129 to get. Bannerman and Massie commenced the second innings for the Australians, and contributed 20 and 31 respectively, Murdoch 27, and Blackham 20, not out. Six of the wickets of the Australians fell before the required number of runs was obtained. The Australians won the match by four wickets. The English bowling was dead on the wicket, and the batsmen could not take liberties with.

BANQUET TO ARCHIBALD FORBES IN MELBOURNE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, SUNDAY.

Archibald Forbes was entertained by the Mayor at a welcome-dinner given in the Town Hall on Saturday evening. About 100 gentlemen were present, including several members of the Ministry, members of Parliament, representatives of the Press, University, the Colleges, Royal Society, Public Library, several Aldermen and Councillors, foreign Consuls, and other prominent citizens. The Mayor occupied the chair, supported on the right by Mr. Forbes, on the left by Sir Bryan O'Loghlen. The usual loyal toasts having been duly honoured, the Mayor proposed "The Ministry," remarking that there was a general desire that there should be no change of Government at the present time. Sir Bryan O'Loghlen responded. The Mayor then proposed the toast of the evening, "Our Guest," and, in tendering to Mr. Forbes a hearty welcome to Victoria, said that the people of the colony lookde forward to the visits of literary men of Mr. Forbes' talents with the greatest interest, for they could not but feel that when gentlemen possessing the powers of observation and description which characterized him came to the colony, and saw what had been done here in the short time which had elapsed since the colony was settled, such distinguished visitors would be disposed to conclude that the pluck, energy, and perseverance which were the characteristics of the British soldiers had not been wanting in his brother the British colonist. The toast was drunk enthusiastically. Mr. Forbes, in responding, expressed the pride he felt in the marked compliment paid him. He observed that the dinner was not alone a welcome, but also a farewell. It was natural that he should be loth to leave Melbourne, because there had been accorded him here more warmth and breadth of intelligent appreciation than he had ever before met with in his life, but apart from merely personal grounds, there could be no visitor, much less a British visitor, to whom Melbourne would not present an interesting and gratifying study. The Mayor proposed "The Press," which was responded to by Mr. F. W. Haddon, of the Argus, Professor Pearson, of the Age, and Mr. R. Walker, of the Daily Telegraph, all of whom expressed their delight at seeing Mr. Forbes in Melbourne, and paid a high tribute to his remarkable capabilities as a pressman. Alderman Moubray proposed "The Parliament of Victoria," which was responded to by Mr. Lorimer, M.L.C., and Mr. Lalor, Speaker of the Assembly. The Mayor proposed "The Melbourne University;" responded by Dr. Brownless, the Vice-Chancellor. Mr. Pegdon proposed "The Trustees of the Public Library." Mr. D. O. M'Arthur, president, responded to the toast. "Our Colleges," proposed by Mr. G. D. Carter, M.L.A., was responded to by Mr. Ormond, who remarked that on his recent visit to Europe he travelled through France, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, and England, to inquire into the working of the art, science, and technological schools, feeling that there was much need of their introduction into this colony, and he was assisting to establish an institution of that nature in the colony. Mr. C. R. Smith proposed "The Royal Society," to which Mr. R. L. J. Ellery responded. At the instance of Mr. Archibald Forbes, the health of the Mayor was then drunk with much warmth, and the proceedings closed with the toast of "The Ladies."

MONUMENT TO JOHN BATMAN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, SUNDAY.

The ceremony of unveiling the monument raised by public subscription over the grave of John Batman, founder of Melbourne, in the old cemetery, was performed on Saturday afternoon in the presence of a large number of old colonists, and numerous other spectators. The monument, which consists of an obelisk dressed with bluestone with a suitable inscription, cost £120. A detachment of the naval forces and the Cerberus band were drawn up in front of the grave, and addresses having been delivered by the Mayor and other gentlemen, including Mr. Weare, of Geelong, son-in-law of Batman, Messrs. G. A. Thomson and Robert Russell, two of the oldest colonists present, lowered the Victorian ensign with which the monument was veiled, the band playing the National Anthem and the forces presenting arms. It was suggested that the committee should apply to the Government for grants of land to Batman's descendants, as compensation for the loss they sustained in being deprived of the property he purchased.

RAILWAY RATES IN RIVERINA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, SATURDAY.

Correspondence has passed between the railway departments of Victoria and New South Wales relative to the charges for traffic in Riverina. On the 19th ultimo the Victorian department communicated with Mr. Goodchap, Commissioner for New South Wales, inquiring whether he was prepared to enter into a mutual arrangement respecting the rates of conveyance for Riverina wool and general merchandise, with a view to prevent the charges being reduced so as to become unremunerative to either colony. Under date May 30, Mr. Goodchap replied to the effect that the Victorian department was wrong in assuming that the rates for carriage of wool between Hay and Sydney were unremunerative, as they returned a good profit, and might, in fact, be largely reduced without loss. He regrets that the Victorian rates are not profitable, and would be willing to favourably entertain a proposition which, while not disturbing the natural course of trade, would have the effect of increasing the rates of carriage in both colonies, but as the New South Wales charges now returned a profit, a uniform rate would be clearly unnecessary. Mr. Goodchap expressed his regret in noticing that the Victorian department, notwithstanding a desire professed to raise the rates, had since the date of writing further reduced them.

The steamship Ocean narrowly escaped foundering on the oyster bank when making port just before 1 o'clock, but was safely towed off by the tug Prince Alfred, and brought into port. FOOTBALL.

REDFERN FIRST v. CARLTON (PARRAMATTA) FIRST.—These two teams met on the Redfern's new ground, Moore Park, on Saturday afternoon. The former were captained by Phillips, and the latter by Corderoy. Both clubs were well represented, and the game was commenced in good time by Carlton kicking off against the wind, the ball being smartly returned by Redfern, and immediately after followed by a grand run of Williamson's, who passed to Fegan, who ran in and secured first touch, a goal being neatly kicked off it. Play was resumed, the Carlton men making desperate efforts to pass their opponents, but all to no avail, the Redfern men playing with a dash almost unusual with them. Never before did the Redferns indulge in the pretty game of passing so successfully as they did on Saturday, the result being that the ball was incessantly in motion. For the Carlton team dashing runs were made by Byrnes, Tyrell, Crook, and Corderoy, but their achievements were more than covered by Phillips, Coghlan, and Williamson, the latter's playing being the admiration of all. Redfern, however, was too good, and the result was three goals and two tries to nil. Phillips kicked two goals off touches respectively by Mulcahy and Coghlan, and Williamson kicked another from the field. The Redfern men won by three goals and two tries to nil. The forwards of both teams worked well, and, backed up by such men as Walker and Williamson, the Parramatta men had no show. The teams were—Redfern: Amos, E. G. Allen, Coghlan, Fegan, Hunter, Moares, Mulcahy, Monday, Phillips (captain), Payten, Taylor, Vance, Williamson, Walker, Walters. Parramatta: Corderoy (captain), Little, Rowling, Byrnes, Crook, Cox, Teece, Farquhar, Tyrell, Ansterionie, M'Arthur, Harvey, Saunders, Byrnes.

A match between the Burwood Second and the Glenhead Second resulted in an easy victory for the former team by five goals nine tries to nil. The Glenheads, who were a man short, played a plucky uphill game, but in spite of the good play of Hamilton, M'Donald, Gilder, Marshall, Wahlberg, and Fotheringham, they had to act on the defensive all through the game. The following obtained tries for Burwood:—Roxburgh, 3; Leary, 2; Hassall, 2; Oakes, 1; Lindeman, 1; Street, 1; Pearson, 1; P. Campbell, 1; Cox, 1; and Gillham, 1. Goals were kicked by P. Campbell, 1; Street, 1; and Newsham, 3.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that two interesting football matches took place on Saturday, both being very largely patronized. Essendon against South Melbourne resulted in a draw, two goals each, the former exhibiting by far the best play. In the match Carlton against Melbourne the former secured an easy victory by six goals to two.

NORTH SHORE ROWING CLUB.

A race for trial fours, in string-test gigs, came off over the usual course for such races, at Careening Cove, on Saturday afternoon. The race excited some interest among the local residents; and, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, a few ladies graced the club premises with their presence. Mr. Tucker was to have stroked East St. Leonards, but being unable to do so Mr. Fitzpatrick took his place:—1. East St. Leonards—Alderton, bow; H. Bligh, No. 2; R. W. Bennett, No. 3; H. A. Fitzpatrick, stroke. 2. St. Leonards—J. Panton, bow; Gordon, No. 2; W. H. German, No. 3; R. Little, stroke. 3. Victoria—H. Bole, bow; G. Crowly, No. 2; H. H. Robey, No. 3; J. B. Brindley, stroke.

THE CRICKET SCANDAL.

The Scotsman of April 22 says:—"Letters received by Notts and Yorkshire gentlemen describe an extraordinary scandal which has taken place in Australia, in connection with the visit of the English cricketers to that country. Our correspondent has made inquiry into the facts, and the following statement may be relied upon. The English Eleven were about to play in Melbourne an important match against the Australians, when two members of the English team agreed, it is alleged, with some Australian betting men to 'sell' the match. The two tried to prevail upon another member of the English team to join them, but he declined, and then exposed the affair to Shaw and Shrewsbury, the English managers. Next came a serious upshot. Shaw and Shrewsbury threatened to report the conduct of the two men to the Marylebone Club and to the committees of their respective counties (Notts and Yorkshire). One of the two thereupon assaulted the third man, and himself got beaten in the fight. Then the second man set upon the third man, and seriously maltreated him. Shaw and Shrewsbury will report to the cricket authorities on their arrival home."

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

NYMAGEE, SATURDAY.

We have had a splendid fall of rain during the week, amounting to one inch and fifty-two points, which has considerably benefited the mine and district. In consequence of the rain all the furnaces have been thrown idle at the mine, the carters being unable to draw firewood during the wet weather. Another important addition has been made to the company's extensive plant in the jigger just completed, and which is in splendid working order. A large quantity of ore, which was previously considered nonpayable, can now be worked up to a high percentage at a low cost by means of this valuable piece of machinery, but a good supply of water is required to work the same.

Messrs. Melhado and Curtis report the yield from the Band and Albion Consols for last week to be 489oz. from 1000 tons crushed.

Mr. A. P. Wood reports the yields of Ballarat mines for the week ending June 3 as follows:—Madame Berry, 609oz. gold; Loughlin, 246oz.; Egerton, 303oz.; Lone Hand, 201oz.; Black Horse United, 127oz.; Dyke's Freehold, 91oz.

THE WEATHER.

The weather on Saturday slightly differed from that of the previous day, being dull and threatening, with occasional showers. There was a strong southerly wind blowing, and a heavy sea running outside. Yesterday morning there were occasional showers, and it cleared somewhat at noon, but at 9 p.m. rain fell again, continuing for several hours. The downfall was not general on Saturday, judging by reports received from the chief stations of this colony, which stated in the greater number of instances that the weather was fine and clear. Appended is the return up to 3 p.m. on Saturday:—

AMUSEMENTS.

A change of programme was made at two places of amusement on Saturday evening; while at the Theatre Royal, "The Colonel" and "Uncle's Will," and at the Gaiety Theatre "The Grand Duchess" were repeated and will be given nightly until further notice.

That long expected comedy "The Professor," was produced at the Opera House on Saturday evening, and it justified all that had been said about it, for it kept nearly every person in the audience laughing from beginning to end of it. It is, in truth, less a comedy than a very long farce, and seeing that on Saturday night it was not over until half-past 11, it would be wise on the part of the management to either shorten scenes in it, for it is after all possible to have too much of the waits between the acts, or curtail some of the less interesting the best of things. "The Professor" was written by Mr. W. H. Gillette, an American author, and is far and away the funniest thing in its line that America has yet supplied us with; but it cannot be commended as a model of dramatic construction. The plot proper turns upon a brother's recovery of his long-lost sister, a result brought about by the acumen and cleverness of a detective; but there is also an underplot—much the more original and interesting of the two—which shows a learned Coelebs "in search of a wife," and succeeding only too well in the quest. The two stories are played out in and around the Poggawamsett Hotel, a summer retreat in the White Mountains, where merry schoolgirls and jolly students flirt and chatter; where Henry Marston, aided by the detective, rescues his sister, Daisy, from the ruffian Brown, who years before had stolen her, as Charlie Ross was stolen; where bashful Gustavus Thomkins is worried by his energetic father into love-making until he plucks up manly spirit enough to kick against parental despotism; and where learned Professor Hinsdale is aided by a pretty, impulsive, ignorant girl to forswear celibacy. It is this last-named gentleman who gives the comedy its title, and whose doings make up most of its action. He is described as a shining light of the Boston University; a "most excellent and simple-hearted gentleman; in intellect, in scientific analysis, in power of abstract reasoning, a veritable giant; in emotion, in affairs of the heart, in society observances, an inexperienced child;" and this description exactly fits him. Thus he is always ready—too ready—to interrupt his own or anyone else's love-making, to correct an inaccurate statement in astronomy or natural history; accepts without question his aunt's advice as to how he should make love, and repeats her very words literally to anyone he may be at the time proposing marriage to; and generally conducts himself in the most utterly unconventional manner. He perpetrates the most absurd blunders, and becomes involved in the most frightful maze of marriage engagements, yet his ingenious and unworldly simplicity, delightful candour, and thorough manliness make him as great a favourite with the audience as with his many fiancées, and carry him triumphantly through his difficulties. It is the adventures and the misadventures of the Professor which principally interest the audience, and a ripple of laughter prevails constantly while he is on the stage. The part is in itself an excellent one, and Mr. Frederick Marshall, who plays it, does so with the most entire conception of its humorous characteristics. He does not fall into the error a less capable actor might be tempted to commit—that of trying to make the part funny; and so in being as natural as possible in representing to the fullest degree the pale student to whom women are at first a sealed book, which he understands little of, even when he is prevailed upon to study it, he is intensely comical. Mistaking another lady for his aunt, he kisses her fondly, and then explains that the experience cannot have been more unpleasant to her than it was to him. He proposes in rapid succession to five or six young ladies, and thenceforward is constantly manœuvring to escape their attentions; forgets a sweetheart in his anxiety to secure a frog or a beetle, as "a specimen;" accepts questions in their literal meaning, and answers them accordingly, and altogether provokes hearty laughter by every action. Mr. Marshall is particularly successful in this comedy, and his "Professor" will long be remembered here. After him, the gentleman who has done most to make the play go is Mr. George Gordon, who has painted for it four scenes, which are in the fullest sense of the words works of art. It certainly is art of high merit to so deceive the eye that the little stage at the Opera House seems to reach away into almost illimitable distance, and that the foreground of a scene is so arranged and lighted as to assume perfectly the appearance of a woodland nook; and this Mr. Gordon has achieved. His first scene is an interior, about which there is nothing very special; but the second shows a romantic forest glade—large trees, "built in" upon the stage, fallen trunks and light undergrowth below them, great beds of waving feathery fern behind, and underfoot a deep carpet of withered leaves, the whole so artfully flooded with brilliant light that the alternate "shadow and shine" below seem the effect of sunbeams breaking through the foliage above. The third set shows an exquisite fairy dell—more trees and undergrowth, a still pool, apparently solid boulders, and a rocky declivity, down which rushes a brawling stream, leaping occasional gaps, foaming over obstacles, and then flowing smoothly down the stage, almost to the footlights, before it is diverted to the wing. During the progress of the third act, the lights are so managed that the gradual approach of darkness is shown. The fourth set shows the exterior of the hotel, and the background is a noble valley, shut in by pineclad mountains, and bisected by a clear, wide river. The scene is supposed to be one in the White Mountains, but its beauty and atmosphere are essentially those of the Yosemite Valley. On three occasions was Mr. Gordon called upon the stage by the delighted audience—a compliment such as is but rarely paid to a scenic artist. An original and effective element in this drama is the introduction of the match-making papa and of his bashful son, who becomes partially paralysed and wholly awkward at every meeting he has with the woman his father intends him to wed, and whose conversation never soars above comparisons between one day and its predecessor. Mr. Edmund Marshall played the former part effectively, and Mr. D'Arcy Stanfield made a complete hit by his careful and very finished study of the latter. Mr. Titheradge as Beauregard, the artist, pleased everybody, except when he had to sing, and it would certainly be an improvement in the play if the songs introduced were transferred to some one else, or cut out altogether. Miss Emma Fischer's Daisy Brown was picturesque and full of life; Miss Melville filled satisfactorily the neutral part of the Professor's aunt and mentor; and Miss Annie Taylor made an amusing burlesque of a gushing girl of uncertain age and social standing. Mrs. Frederick Marshall played an heiress, but she certainly looked too robust and matronly to be a good representative of a young unmarried girl. Otherwise the impersonation was enjoyable enough. Mr. Fred. Dark and Mr. Frank Forbes were capital representatives of a couple of Yale students, and Miss Cora Gwynne and Miss Carrie Wallace as fiancées of the Professor were amusing. The villain was represented very efficiently by Mr. Sterling Whyte, who was appropriately brusque in speech and bearing, and brutal in appearance. Last of all, it may be noted that Mr. Gillette's comedy is distinctively American, and nowhere more so than in the idiomatic use of "ugly" for "evil tempered," "mad" for "angry," and "right away" for "at once;" and the American expressions might with advantage have been Anglicised by the stage manager, for many members of the audience on Saturday night evidently did not understand them.

"Neck and Neck," a sensational drama, by Mr. Arthur Vivian, was produced at the Queen's Theatre on Saturday night, and the audience it attracted was a large and very appreciative one. That the work well earns the epithet of sensational will be conceded when it is considered that one scene actually represents, with a considerable amount of fidelity, the execution of a man by hanging; this man, who is innocent of the crime he is condemned to suffer for, being after the lapse of a few seconds cut down alive. The plot is the well-worn one of a murderer shifting the penalty of his guilt upon the shoulders of someone else, and finally being brought to justice by the efforts of loving friends of the person thus unjustly accused. Mr. Stoneham plays the murderer; Mr. J. Thorpe, the persecuted and hanged gentleman; Mr. Keogh, an eccentric person who aids in bringing the aforesaid murderer to justice; Mr. Arthur Vivian, a comical and musical individual with red hair and a green tie; Miss Marion Willis, the sweetheart of the unjustly accused; and Miss Helen Vivian, the betrothed of Simon, the red-haired. The whole play went smoothly, the different effects were well worked, and Mr. Arthur Vivian's songs were so acceptable to the audience that the original number was considerably swelled.

There is no diminution in the popularity of Bartlemy Fair, which, despite the inclemency of the weather, proved an attraction for a large number of persons on Saturday. Some of the amusements provided are of an excellent description, and amongst these may be mentioned the tight-wire walking of Harry Braham and the gymnastic displays of the Messrs. West. The band of the Volunteer Artillery Force was stationed in the gallery of the Exhibition Building, and that portion of the structure was allotted to a number of visitors who were either participators in or spectators of dancing. Bartlemy Fair will continue open until Tuesday evening, when it will be closed.

Our Melbourne telegram mentions that Miss Pomeroy commenced a season at the Theatre Royal in that city on Saturday night to a good house.

SERPENT WORSHIP.—One of the earliest forms of idolatry was serpent worship, which was closely allied with sun worship, and became well nigh universal. We find its traces amongst different races, and in many lands; in general curiously mingled with traditions of the temptation and fall in Eden. That story reappears in one form or other in almost every mythology of Europe and Asia, and even in the more isolated lands of North and South America. The esteem and reference in which the serpent was held in all ancient lands can only be traced to its being regarded as the embodiment of wisdom, in some dim association with the traditions of Eden. It would seem as if this idea were in some degree kept up by our Lord's own words, when he recommends his disciples to be "wise as serpents," as well as "harmless as doves." But this probably refers to the well-known great sagacity of the serpent in taking care of itself, or avoiding danger. What was Satan's tempting offer to Eve? That she should be wise as God himself, knowing good and evil. What became of the faith which God himself revealed to Adam, and which was his support in the agony of expulsion from his beautiful home? How came it that, in the course of two or three centuries, the very instrument of his degradation and misery became to his descendants an object of reverence and worship?—From The Quiver for March.

GUISEPPE GARIBALDI.

By cable we learn of the death of Guiseppe Garibaldi, the Italian patriot. From "Men of the Time" we take the following biography:—

"Garibaldi, Guiseppe, was born at Nice, of poor parents, July 22, 1807. Having always been fond of the sea, he made voyages, when very young, to Odessa and to Rome. When he was four-and-twenty, he became mixed up with Mazzini in a conspiracy against Charles Albert, King of Sardinia, and was compelled to quit his country. In 1834 he was again in trouble, and was condemned to death in his absence for a similar attempt. He escaped to France, and landed at Marseilles, signalising himself there by tending the patients in a cholera hospital whom the nurses had deserted. Thence he sailed in an Egyptian corvette, and offered his services to the Bey of Tunis; but the life was not stirring enough for him, and in 1836 he gave his sword to the republic of Rio Grande, then at war with Brazil. He declared war on Brazil with 16 men in a vessel of 30 tons, but was taken prisoner at Gualeguay, and on trying to escape was cruelly treated. After being set at liberty he again fought for Rio Grande, and passed through a variety of stirring adventures, in company with his brave wife, Anita. He commanded an Italian legion of 800 men against the Dictator Rosas, and became celebrated for the battle of Salto Sant' Antonio. In 1847, on hearing of the elevation of Pius IX. to the Papacy, he offered his services, but transferred them in 1848 to the provisional government of Rome, Charles Albert declining them. He was received with great enthusiasm at Rome, and was in the thick of the struggle which ensued when the French troops attacked that city. On the entry of the French, Garibaldi fled, the French and Austrians both hotly pursuing him. During the terrible time which followed, his wife sank from exhaustion and dread. Garibaldi next became a manufacturer of soap and candles, on Staten Island. Thence he went to Valparaiso, and returned to the United States, where the command of the U.S. army was offered him. In 1854, on visiting the Tyne, he was presented by the people of Newcastle with a sword. Afterwards he settled in the desolate island of Caprera, where he commenced farming with great success. On offering his services to the Sardinian generals, he was much opposed, but was allowed to organise a body of volunteers, called Alpine Chasseurs. They numbered 17,000; with them he engaged at Varese, Camerlata, Como, Brescia, Magenta, Montebello, Solferino, &c. He landed at Marsala, in May, 1860, and in a short time took Palermo; he thence marched on the mainland, and the struggle was carried from Reggio to Pizzo, to San Giovanni, Mileto, and finally Naples, which King Francis II. evacuated. On his march to Gaeta he met King Victor Emanuel, and saluted him "King of Italy." Capua and Gaeta subsequently capitulated. He did not get on well with the Sardinian lieutenants of the king, and, as poor in purse as he was when he set out, without any honours or titles, he put himself on board a vessel, and went back to his home in Caprera. The cession of his native city Nice to France also deeply chagined him. His insular retirement was not, however, of long duration. On the 26th July, 1862, he published at Palermo a revolutionary address to the Hungarians, inciting them to revolt, possibly with the hope that such a movement would divert a large body of the Austrian troops from Venetia. But the effect of this proclamation was neutralized by a public letter from General Klapka addressed to Garibaldi, in which he demonstrated that any rising of the Hungarian people at that juncture would be ruinous to their cause. But Garibaldi was not to be deterred from his object. On August 1 he joined a body of volunteers at Ficuzza, a forest district, about twenty miles from Palermo. General Cialdini was then sent by the Government to Turin to check this hasty and ill-advised movement; but before he arrived Garibaldi and his followers had crossed in two French steamers from Catania to Melito, a small port on the Calabrian coast. They were followed by a strong body of the royal troops under Colonel Pallavacino, and were attacked on the mountain plateau of Aspromonte, when they surrendered, Garibaldi himself being severely wounded by a rifle bullet in the ankle. He was conveyed to Spezzia, where the bullet was extracted, and he was attended by Mr. R. Partridge, an English surgeon sent out specially for the purpose, and by the most distinguished Italian practitioners. On account of his services in the cause of Italian Independence in 1860, he was pardoned, and he returned to Caprera. In the spring of 1864 Garibaldi visited England. An immense concourse of people assembled on his arrival in London, where he was entertained by some leading members of the aristocracy, and was honoured with a banquet by the Lord Mayor and the city of London. In the midst of these ovations, he suddenly announced his intention of returning to Italy, thereby putting an end to his engagements to visit several provincial towns. The cause of this resolution on his part was the subject of much controversy at the time. Having paid a visit to some friends in the west of England, Garibaldi embarked in the Duke of Sutherland's yacht (the Duke and Duchess accompanying him), and reached Caprera in safety. During the campaign of 1866, Garibaldi again took the field, was engaged in operations in the Tyrol, sustained a severe repulse from the Austrians, July 22, and retired upon the Soro. This reverse he retrieved July 23, and was preparing to advance, when the war was brought to a close, and Garibaldi retired to Caprera. The year 1867 was a still more disastrous one for Garibaldi. In spite of the reserve maintained by the Italian Government, he determined to complete, if possible, the unification of Italy. Accordingly he revived the agitation on the Roman question, and openly organized an invasion of the States of the Church. The Government resolved to suppress this movement, and accordingly its leader was arrested at Asinalunga, by order of the Minister Ratazzi, on September 24. Garibaldi was taken in the first instance to Alessandria, but was afterwards permitted to return home to Caprera, in the neighbourhood of which island a man-of-war was stationed, in order to prevent the escape of the revolutionary chief. This vigilance was, however, unavailing, as Garibaldi escaped on the 14th of October, and proceeding to Florence, harangued the populace and started on the 22nd to join the insurgent bands on the Roman frontier. At the head of four battalions of volunteers he defeated the Pontifical troops at Monte Rotondo, October 26; but on the 4th November the Garibaldians again encountered at Mentana the Pontifical troops, who had been reinforced by a portion of the French expeditionary corps, and suffered a speedy and crushing defeat, thanks mainly, according to the official report of General de Failly, to the superiority of the Chassepot rifle, which "did wonders" on this memorable occasion. Garibaldi was arrested at Figline, on his journey to Caprera, and carried to the fortress of Varignano, near Spezzia. The General protested against this act, and claimed the protection due to an Italian Deputy and an American citizen. He was set at liberty on the 26th, and retired to his island home, which he again left on hearing of the downfall of the French Empire and the establishment of the Republic, when, hastening to France, he placed his sword at the disposal of the Government of the National Defence. He landed at Marseilles October 7, 1870, arrived at Tours, the seat of the Government Delegation, two days later, and on the 16th was nominated to the command of the irregular forces in the Vosges. Great expectations were formed in some quarters of the Garibaldian troops, but they rendered little or no service in the field, while their conduct towards the clergy and the inmates of conventual establishments excited a feeling of disgust in the minds of all the respectable people in the country. In February, 1871, Garibaldi was returned a Deputy to the National Assembly for Paris and several of the departments, but at the preliminary sitting of that body at Bordeaux, on the 12th, the General, "loving the republic but hating the priesthood," ungraciously gave in his resignation. He also resigned the command of the Army of the Vosges, and soon afterwards took his departure for Caprera. In the year 1874 the fact was made public that Garibaldi was in necessitous circumstances, whereupon offers of pecuniary assistance were made to him by several of his admirers in England, Scotland, and the United States. Some of these offers he accepted, but he declined, in not very respectful language, to accept a national gift which was voted to him in the Chamber of Deputies by 207 votes against 25 (December 19). Being elected a member of the Italian Parliament, he emerged from his island retreat and proceeded to Rome, where he took his seat amid much popular enthusiasm, January 25, 1875. Since then he has been engaged in promoting a project for the deviation of the Tiber, and for the improvement of the Roman Campagna. In April, 1876, he wrote a letter to Signor Depretis, announcing his acceptance of the donation of 100,000 lire, presented to him by the nation and the king.

THE GLEBE TRAMWAY.

The secretary of the Glebe Tramway Vigilance Committee has handed us the following communication with reference to the extension of the tramway to the Glebe, and in reply to a letter from Sir G. Wigram Allen to the Commissioner for Railways:—

"Department of Public Works, Railway Branch,
Sydney, 1st June, 1882.

"Sir,—In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 23rd ultimo, directing attention to the present condition of the road along which the Glebe tramway line is laid, and also the delay in the opening of this extension, I have the honour to inform you that the representations made by you from time to time in this matter have not been unconsidered by the Department, but there are good reasons for not opening this line until the roadway in George-street West is completed. I may add that attention will be given to the representation that the rails are above the level of the street, and the necessary steps will be at once taken to have proper repairs effected. "C. A. GOODCHAP.

"To Sir G. Wigram Allen."

OPENING OF THE TRAMWAY TO BOTANY.

The opening of the tramway to Botany was celebrated on Saturday by a picnic held at Correy's Gardens. The weather was unfavourable, showers falling at intervals during the whole day, accompanied by a keen, biting wind; but notwithstanding this about a hundred ladies and gentlemen found their way to the rendezvous. Visitors from Sydney and the intermediate suburbs were conveyed to Botany by a special tram, which left the head office in Elizabeth-street at about a quarter to 2. A brass band accompanied the guests and played lively airs on the journey out, and also supplied music for dancing in the pavilion. At about 3 o'clock luncheon was served by Mr. Correy. The chair was occupied by Mr. J. Geddes, and the vice-chair by Mr. Walter Bradley. After the solids had been duly discussed, the chairman proposed the loyal toasts, which were fitly honoured. He next gave the toast of "The Ministry," which he was sure they would drink with great pleasure. They had a great deal to thank the Ministry for besides the bestowal of tram communication which they had met to celebrate. Hon. J. Sutherland, who was called upon, said that although he had sat in Opposition to the Ministry, he had never given a vote against them that his constituents would blame him for. He was very glad to be present that day. Mr. J. Davies, who was called for, also responded. He was a thorough supporter of the Government, because he believed that they not only had the best interests of the country at heart, but had the power and ability to forward those interests. He congratulated them upon the construction of the tramway, which would prove of the greatest benefit to the district. He thought a great deal of praise was due to the present Government for the energy they had shown in the development of our railway and tramway systems; more particularly was credit due to the present Minister for Works, who was one of the best men that had ever occupied the position. The chairman next proposed the toast of "The Parliament of New South Wales," which was responded to by Messrs. Davies, W. T. Poole, and A. R. Fremlin, M.s.L.A. The vice-chairman then gave the toast of "Success to the tramway, coupled with the Department," and in doing so said that while he was perfectly certain that the tramway was a boon to the public, the results already obtained showed that a great mistake had been made in not constructing a system of suburban railways. He believed it would pay the Government to give their officers £1000 each and send them travelling to learn something. The other toasts were "The Contractors, Messrs. Topham, Angus, and Co.," "The Ladies," "The Press," and "The Chairman," which were duly honoured and responded to. After luncheon dancing was resumed and kept up for some time. Apologies for non-attendance from Mr. J. Harris, Mayor of Sydney, the Hon. J. Lackey, Minister for Works, Mr. J. Roberts, Superintendent of Tramways, and Mr. C. A. Goodchap, Commissioner for Railways, were received.

THE BOTANIC GARDENS.

The Botanic Gardens, considering the nature of the season, are in remarkably fine condition, and many of the plants are beginning to bloom. The roses especially are attractive, and the poinsettia, with their highly coloured and beautiful bracts, are refreshing the eye in all directions. Great havoc was done to the beds and walks during the late heavy rains, and at the same time large quantities of soil were swept hurriedly into the creeks and ponds, choking the former and partly filling the latter. The walks generally have been repaired, and are assuming their former smooth and fine aspect, notwithstanding much difficulty having been experienced in obtaining material suitable for enabling this to do so, and that portion of the sea-wall which the rain undermined and caused to fall is being replaced. So far, nothing has been done towards clearing the creeks and ponds of the debris which flowed into them, the repairing of the walks having engaged all the attention of the available staff of workmen, but it is a work which will be undertaken in due course. An important alteration is being effected on the right-hand side of the main gate, by which the appearance of the entrance to the gardens will be greatly beautified. That which was a paddock between the director's residence and the main walk is being trenched and laid out in an ornamental manner, and it is anticipated that in the course of a few months it will form one of the most attractive parts of the garden. The ground on the opposite side of the entrance walk, which was taken in hand last year, is now covered with grass, and presents the appearance of the lawns in the lower part of the gardens. By means of these two improvements the dimensions of the gardens are being manifestly increased, and the pleasure of visiting them so much enhanced. Preparations are also being made, by propagating large numbers of plants, for decorating the flower beds according to the ribbon and carpet patterns, which were introduced and greatly admired at the time of the Exhibition, and which have since become exceedingly popular. Indeed, they appear to have excited the envy of persons in the adjoining colony of Victoria. At least, Mr. Longley, the superintendent of the Ballarat Gardens, was commissioned by the Municipal Council of that city to obtain as accurate a knowledge of their formation and maintenance as possible. Last week he waited on Mr. Moore, and having expressed great admiration for their beauty, intimated that they were likely to be introduced into his gardens. Upon this Mr. Moore promised to supply him with any cuttings he desired. This mode of floral decoration is, it appears, very costly. It requires not alone good taste to apply it, but also incessant diligence to prevent one plant overgrowing the others, and to keep all the plants equal in size. If one plant preponderates over its neighbours, the general beauty and effect are disturbed. Therefore more labour is demanded in attending to them than is exercised in many gardens. During the winter several new shrubberies are to be planted in the Botanic Gardens, and it is intended to remove a number of trees that are considered to be unsightly, inasmuch as their place is being filled with others more attractive. Additional seats for the comfort of visitors also are being made, and will shortly be placed in position; and the erection of a neat building in the lower garden, which shall comprise fruit and refreshment stalls, as well as a retiring-room for ladies, is contemplated. In fact, the site for this has been decided upon by Mr. Moore, and instructions to prepare appropriate designs have been forwarded to Mr. Barnet, the Colonial Architect; and, if found desirable, it is probable that a second structure similar in character will be raised.

A novel application for the restoration of 30 guineas, alleged to be the property of Captain Elverson, was disposed of at the recent Surrey sessions. A soldier named Burridge had been "orderly" to the captain, and was entrusted with a cheque to make certain regimental payments, and he immediately cashed the cheque, and a companion paid 30 guineas at Plymouth for the passage of himself and Burridge to Australia. Burridge was captured and convicted, and Captain Elverson applied for the money to be returned as part of the proceeds of the cheque. Messrs. Anderson consented to pay half of the passage money, which was refused, and they had been served with notice to pay the whole amount. Mr. Witherington, as counsel for them, submitted that section 100 of 24 and 25 Vic., c. 96, did not apply to the case. There was no identity of the money, and if Messrs. Anderson were ordered to pay it would extend beyond the power of the statute. After a discussion the learned chairman and the majority of the magistrates entertained a different opinion to him, and there would, therefore, be no order for the money to be paid to Captain Elverson.

NEWS BY THE ENGLISH MAIL, VIA SAN FRANCISCO.

The Pacific Mail Company's steamship City of Sydney, with the English mails to April 20, and American to May 8, arrived at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. From our files of American papers we take the following English and foreign telegraphic news to May 7:—

THE ASSASSINATION OF LORD F. CAVENDISH AND MR. BURKE.

Dublin, May 6.—Lord Frederick Cavendish and Under-Secretary Burke were murdered this evening in Phœnix Park. Lord Cavendish, the new Secretary for Ireland, and Earl Spencer had remained at Dublin Castle, engaged in the transaction of official business until 6 o'clock this evening, when each drove to his respective residence. After dinner, Lord Frederick and Mr. Thomas Henry Burke, Under-Secretary, went for a walk in Phœnix Park. They were about one-half mile from the city gate, and a quarter of a mile from the Chief Secretary's lodge, when a car drove up which contained four men, two of whom jumped down from the car, and attacking Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke, stabbed them both several times in the throat and breast. The victims struggled hard for life, and in the struggle became separated, their bodies being found some 10 paces apart. The tragedy occurred about 7.10 o'clock in the evening and in broad daylight. The bodies were first discovered by two young gentlemen who were riding bicycles through the park, and who immediately gave the alarm to the police. Surgeons soon reached the spot, but the police were already conveying Mr. Burke's body away to the town, where examination showed life was extinct. The upper part of the body was perforated shockingly, and presented a ghastly sight. Proceeding further, the surgeons reached the body of Lord Cavendish, which was being conveyed away from the park on a stretcher. The body of the Chief Secretary displayed the same dreadful wounds, in addition to which the left arm was broken and the sleeve torn, as if he had put it up to protect his breast. The bodies were taken to Stevens' Hospital, where they will remain until the inquest. The locality of the outrage is terribly marked with blood. The spot where the body of Lord Cavendish was found was absolutely deluged, while Mr. Burke's body lay in a pool of blood. It is said that after the act, the murderers immediately drove off. There seems no clue to the assassins at present, but the police are using every endeavour to discover them. Large quantities of notes and gold coin, besides their gold watches, were found in the pockets of the victims, showing the object of the crime was not robbery.

Great excitement prevails throughout Dublin, and widespread indignation is expressed. Owing to the lateness of the hour of the arrival of the news in London, nothing of the outrage is yet known there among the general public. At the London clubs and other late West End resorts, the news of the assassination was received with feelings of stupefaction, followed by expressions of bitterest resentment. Previous to his appointment as Chief Secretary for Ireland to succeed Mr. W. E. Forster, Lord Frederick C. Cavendish was Financial Secretary to the Treasury, an office not in the Cabinet. He was a son to the Duke of Devonshire, and a younger brother of the Marquis of Hartington, Secretary of State for the Indian Department, and belonged to one of the oldest and wealthiest familes of England. He was a man about 40 years of age. Mr. Thomas Haviland Burke, Under-Secretary for Ireland, held the same office under Mr. Forster, and was still acting as such, it having been understood that no change would be made for the present. Phœnix Park, on the north-west boundary of Dublin, is seven miles in circumference, and includes an area of 1759 acres. The park is in itself beautiful, and the nearness of the Dublin and Wicklow mountains adds greatly to its attractions. The Vice-Regal Lodge and the Chief Secretary's Lodge are the only buildings inside the gates, and they have little pretension beyond their size.

New York, May 7.—The Herald's Dublin special says: The details of the tragedy are as follows:—A boy named Jacobs states that while birdnesting in the park he saw, about 200 yards from where he was and close to the road, a group of men, as if wrestling. He thought they were roughs, and did not pay any attention to them. He then saw two men fall to the ground and four others jump on a car and drive off towards the chapel, which lies in a direction opposite to the city. They drove at a rapid pace, and he could not give any description of the appearance of the men. A gentleman named Maguire and a friend, who were on bicycles, shortly before had passed Mr. Burke and Lord Frederick Cavendish when on their way along the main road through the park, and on their return journey, they found the Chief Secretary lying in the centre of the carriage way and Mr. Burke prostrate upon the pathway. Both gentlemen were lying in large pools of blood. They informed the police at the park gate station of what they had seen. The police at once proceeded to the scene of the murder and conveyed the bodies to the hospital. On examination it was found that Mr. Burke had received several stabs near the region of the heart, and his throat had been cut almost across. His clothes were absolutely saturated with blood, and the hemorrhage must have been tremendous. His clothes were also torn, his gloves had been torn in many places, and his hands bore marks suggestive of a fierce contest with his assailants. Lord Frederick did not wear gloves. He had been stabbed in several places about the chest. One wound was through the right lung and penetrated deeply. At the time of the dreadful occurrence the park, as might be expected on a lovely evening, was crowded in many places with people. It is a remarkable fact, and one suggesting that the murderous onslaught must have been short, terrible, and decisive, that persons sitting and walking within a few hundred yards of where the bodies were found heard nothing of the affair. After the procession to-day the Chief-Secretary had discharged his official duties in connection with the ceremony of installation, and immediately returned on an outside car to Phœnix Park gate, when walking toward the Vice-regal Lodge he met Mr. Burke, and both gentlemen proceeded together.

No arrests had been made up to this (Sunday) morning. No one is allowed to go into the hospital, which is guarded by a large force of police. All the available forces of constables are out searching for the assassins, and there is a strong force of military at the Vice-regal Lodge. It is supposed Mr. Burke was first assailed and stabbed through the heart. Lord Cavendish attempted to defend him, but he, too, was stabbed by the assassins. They repeatedly plunged their knives into the breasts of their victims, and having cut their throats they got on the car and drove rapidly from the park by the Chapelizod gate. The news rapidly spread and created the widest excitement and consternation in the city. Lord Spencer and the Vice-royal party were just going down to dinner at the lodge when the news was sent to them. Some members of the household were at the opera at the Gaiety Theatre, and were sent for. When the cause of their departure was known the excitement was intense, and a proposal was made to stop the performance, which was ultimately cut short.

London, May 7.—A correspondent at Dublin telegraphs as follows:—A gentleman informs me that at about 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, he saw a country car of peculiar build driving through Grafton-street. It contained four very suspicious looking fellows, with blackened faces, and wearing slouched hats pulled down in front so as to some extent cover their faces.

The victims of the tragedy were laid out on beds in the hospital just as they were brought in. A hospital surgeon states that he fancied he felt a slight pulsation in Mr. Burke's body when he first saw it. Telegrams were immediately sent to all the police stations in Great Britain, giving information of the murder.

It has been ascertained that Under-Secretary Burke walked from the Castle to the park gate, where he got on a car, and while driving through the park overtook a gentleman. Mr. Burke alighted from the car and accompanied the gentleman, who was undoubtedly Lord Frederick Cavendish, on foot, while the car returned to the city. Mr. Burke had been long regarded with extreme disfavour by the Nationalists of Ireland. Police are on guard at the scene of the murder, in order to prevent interference with the pools of blood.

The Observer to-day in a leading article says:—"Comment on this monstrous crime is almost unnecessary. We have had too many crimes in Ireland of late as cruel and unprovoked to feel any but the faintest hope that the present murder can be excepted from the long roll of outrages of which the agitation in Ireland has been the guilty cause and which have remained too long unpunished and unrepressed. For the present we content ourselves with saying that be the explanation of the murders what it may, all Englishmen will share the horror felt at this deed of blood and will sympathise with the sorrow which has fallen on the bearers of names honoured and cherished in the annals of our country."

Messrs. Parnell and Davitt have spoken upon the assassination. Mr. Parnell said: "I am horrified more than I can express. This is one of the most atrocious crimes ever committed. Its effect must certainly be damaging to the Irish people. I have always found Lord Frederick Cavendish a most amiable gentleman—painstaking and strictly conscientious in the fulfillment of his official duties. I did not share the disappointments expressed in the liberal Irish circles regarding his appointment, as I anticipated that the principal reforms of the present session, such as an amendment to the Land Act, would be under Mr. Gladstone's personal supervision." Mr. Michael Davitt says: "No language I can possibly command can express the horror with which I regard these murders, or my despair at their consequences. When I heard of them Saturday night I could not credit the news. I grieve to think that where the Government has just run a risk in introducing a new policy, when everything seemed bright and hopeful, when all expected outrages to cease, this terrible event should dash our hopes. I wish to God I never had left Portland. The crime was without a motive. It is not only the most fatal blow that has ever been struck at the Land League, but one of the most disastrous blows that has been sustained by the national cause during the last century. Its occurrence at this particular juncture seems like a terrible destiny. My only hope is that the assassins may be discovered and punished as they deserve. It is wonderful how the outrage could occur within a few hundred yards of the constabulary depot." Mr. Dillon, in an interview, said he deeply deplored the sorrowful tidings. He fully concurred in the opinions on the outrages expressed by Mr. Parnell and Mr. Davitt. Mr. Sexton said: I am horrified. I regarded Lord Frederick Cavendish as an amiable and painstaking gentleman. Lord Cavendish was certainly considered a capable administrator. The first feeling on the appointment of Lord Frederick Cavendish was undoubtedly one of disappointment, but it began to be gradually understood that Mr. Gladstone sent him to Ireland to have the advantages of the services of one with whom he had long worked, thereby enabling him to apply his own will more freely to Irish difficulties. There is no reason to believe that there was the slightest personal feeling against Lord Frederick in any political quarter of Ireland. I cannot help surmising that he must have been mistaken by the murderers for some one else. Mr. Burke had been connected with the Castle for many years, and public feeling from time to time identified him with many harsh measures; but well-informed persons have always held that Mr. Burke confined himself rigorously to his duties. He was very little known to the Dublin populace. He was present, unrecognized, at the great political meeting in Phœnix Park last summer. He belonged to a land-owning family, and many people for a long time believed him to be the real Governor. The crime is more inexplicable when one considers the good temper of the Irish at the rejoicing over the release of the suspects."

The following manifesto of the Land League was adopted this afternoon at a hurriedly-summoned meeting at Westminster Palace Hotel:—"To the People of Ireland: On the eve of what seemed a bright future for our country, that evil destiny which has apparently pursued us for centuries has struck at our hopes another blow which cannot be exaggerated in its disastrous consequences. In this hour of sorrowful gloom we venture to give expression to our profoundest sympathy with the people of Ireland in the calamity that has befallen our cause through this horrible deed, and with those who determined at the last hour that the policy of conciliation should supplant that of terrorism and national distrust. We earnestly hope that the attitude and action of the Irish people will show to the world that an assassination such as has startled us almost to the abandonment of hope of our country's future, is deeply and religiously abhorrent to their every feeling and instinct. We appeal to you to show by every manner of expression that amidst the universal feeling of horror which the assassination has excited, no people feel so deep a detestation of its atrocity or so deep a sympathy with those whose hearts must be seared by it as the nation upon whose prosperity and reviving hopes it may entail consequences more ruinous than those that have fallen to the lot of unhappy Ireland during the present generation. We feel that no act that has ever been perpetrated in our country during the exciting struggles of the past fifty years has so strained the name of hospitable Ireland as this cowardly and unprovoked assassination of a friendly stranger, and that until the murderers of Lord Cavendish and Mr. Burke are brought to justice, that stain will sully our country's name. (Signed.) CHAS. S. PARNELL, JOHN DILLON, MICHAEL DAVITT."

Dublin, May 7.—Maguire, one of the men who discovered the remains, says only five or ten minutes elapsed between his meeting with Lord Cavendish and Mr. Burke alive and well and the finding of their corpses. It is believed Mr. Burke was aware that his movements were dogged. He had frequently been advised to have an escort, but always refused. Early this morning, in order to allay excitement, orders were sent from Dublin Castle to clear away the blood at the scene of the murder, and have the police guarding the spot withdrawn. There will be an indignation meeting of citizens in Dublin on Monday, the Mayor presiding. A huge subscription, as a reward for information leading to the discovery of the murderers, is talked of.

Paris, May 7.—Both press and public denounce the awful crime in Dublin on Saturday night, and express fears that the murder may serve as a weapon for the Tories. The Temps says:—"We hope the crime will induce Mr. Parnell and his colleagues to separate from the fanatics and villains who are disgracing the Land Leaguers." The Journal des Debats says:—"The Nihilists are surpassed; that Mr. Parnell is shown to be powerless, and the Government is to be thrown into the hands of the Whigs."

London, May 7.—The Duke of Devonshire, the father, and the Marquis of Hartington, the brother, of Lord Frederick Cavendish, started yesterday for Dublin. London society, beginning with the Queen, who sent a telegram of condolence, has made a demonstration of sympathy as remarkable as that which occurred on the death of President Garfield. A subscription list has been opened at the Mansion House for a reward for the apprehension of the murderers. Great regret is expressed at the continuance of bonfires in some streets to-night to celebrate the release of Davitt.

Dublin, May 7.—Orders have been issued that all boats coming from Ireland be searched for the assassins. Captain Ross, the late secretary of Mr. Forster, has gone with a special report, and as a representative of Earl Spencer, to London. It was reported to-day that Mr. Burke was the victim whose assassination had been planned, and that Lord Frederick Cavendish was only killed because he was in Mr. Burke's company. The inquest on the bodies was opened to-day. Twenty jurors had been summoned over night, and all answered to their names except one. The jury consisted of gentlemen. Mounted police occupied the hospital yard, and there was a large crowd of people outside. Mr. White, the City Coroner, said he summoned the jury to meet on Sunday, in order that the remains might be removed at once. He declared that language was inadequate to express the horror and shame which all must feel. After the jury had viewed the bodies the Coroner stated that the cause of death was quite apparent, but that he would adjourn the inquest until Monday for formal evidence.

Buffalo, May 7.—The assassination in Dublin on Saturday called forth the following proclamation:—"To the Land League of America: The execrable and cowardly assassination of Lord Frederick Cavendish, the newly-appointed Chief Secretary for Ireland, and Under-Secretary Burke, has horrified the world, and is especially painful and abhorrent to every true friend of Ireland. We denounce the awful crime and exhort our brethren in Ireland to use every effort to bring its perpetrators to justice, and show their detestation of the fiendish act, which only an arch enemy of our race or some irresponsible idiot could have conceived or executed.—JAMES MOONEY, President of the Irish National Land League of America." Several of the most prominent members of the Irish National Land League of this city execrate the horrible crime, and trust the perpetrators of the fiendish act will be brought speedily to justice. The assassination is considered a direct blow at the rising hopes of Ireland, and is particularly to be deplored at this time.

Augusta, Ga., May 7.—The Land League has passed a resolution denouncing the murders of Lord Cavendish and Mr. Burke.

New York, May 6.—The Tribune says editorially:—The blood of the murdered officials cries to heaven. Not England alone, but the civilised world, recoils in horror from the ghastly spectacle of the mangled corpses in the great pleasure ground of the Irish capital. Whether the crime has been planned and executed in a frenzy of revolutionary hatred or in the wantonness of miscalculated malevolence, it is a diabolical outrage on modern civilization. The catastrophe wrought by pigmies is fraught with momentous consequence to the English people and the Irish race. It may prolong indefinitely the race conflict which has already outlived four centuries. While these foul murders have widened the breach between Englishmen and Irishmen, they will alienate the sympathies of the world. Americans, especially, will recoil in horror, and then utter their detestation, for the wanton and malevolent wickedness of the political murderers. It is not only an enemy of Gladstone and the English Liberals, it is a deadly foe of Ireland herself, that has brought upon her this awful reproach.

Chicago, May 7.—The Sixth Ward Land League of this city to-day passed resolutions expressing abhorrence and execration of the deed done in the murder of Lord Cavendish and Mr. Burke, at Dublin, Saturday. They denounced the assassins, and gave expression to the hope that they will speedily be brought to justice.

EUROPEAN NEWS BY THE STEAMER LIGURIA.

By the Liguria we have files of London papers to 28th April, seven days later than those brought by the P. and O. Mail, from which the following intelligence is extracted:—

MARRIAGE OF PRINCE LEOPOLD.

The event of the week has been the marriage of the Duke of Albany to the Princess Helen of Waldeck, which was celebrated with due pomp and ceremony in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, yesterday, April 27. The bride reached England two days previously, on Tuesday, April 25. An enthusiastic welcome awaited her when she landed at Queenborough—in weather which was anything but Royal—and her journey thence to Windsor was a genuinely triumphal progress. On Thursday the weather was perfect. The air was cold, but the sky was brilliantly clear, and the sun shone all day. Everything passed off admirably. The approaches to St. George's Chapel were crowded with gaily-dressed troops of loyal spectators. The uniforms, the dresses, the rich tints of the painted glass windows reflected upon the floor, the knightly pennons hanging from the roof—these and many other features in the spectacle caused the interior of the building to be one unbroken mass of magnificence. The Queen bore herself with her usual composure; the bridegroom betrayed some signs of nervousness; the bride went through the ceremony with graceful dignity. Amongst the wedding guests were the King and Queen of Holland, and all the members of our own Royal Family now in England. In the afternoon the Duke and Duchess of Albany drove to Claremont in a carriage-and-four, the whole road—some 18 miles in distance—being decorated, wherever it passed through a village, with triumphal arches, Venetian masts, and other insignia of joy. The banquet at Windsor in honour of the Royal marriage was upon a scale of extraordinary splendour. No Sovereign, European or Asiatic, possesses such a service of gold plate as that which was placed before the Royal guests; its value is estimated at not less than £2,000,000. Among its contents are the lyre-bird, whose body and tail are composed of solid gold, ornamented with brilliants, rubies, emeralds, and pearls, and the tiger's head of silver and gold, which were taken from Tippoo Sahib at the storming of Seringapatam. Only three toasts were given—the health of the bride and bridegroom, of the King and Queen of Holland, and of the Queen of England.

POLITICAL.

With the exception of the Budget, the Parliamentary history of the week has produced little worthy of notice. Some interest, however, attaches to a speech made by Mr. Gladstone in the House of Commons at the morning sitting on Wednesday, April 26. It had been announced that he would select the occasion of a debate on the second reading of a bill to amend the Land Act of last year, brought forward by the Home Rulers for definitely declaring the future policy of the Government in regard to Ireland. His exposition, however, of the Ministerial intentions was most meagre. The bill just mentioned contains clauses for the remission of all arrears up to the end of last August, and for the settlement of the balance by a loan to landlords and tenants; for increasing the tenant's interest in his improvements; for extending the benefit of the Act to leaseholders; and for facilitating the creation of a peasant proprietary. With two of these matters the Prime Minister said the Government would deal—the question of arrears (which, in the opinion of experts, is the most pressing of all Irish difficulties), and with those clauses of the Land Act enabling occupiers to become owners, which, in their present shape, are practically inoperative. But on neither of these matters did Mr. Gladstone give the details of the Ministerial plan. He did not say whether he would adopt Mr. Parnell's proposal for settling the arrears; but he did say that before he dealt with the purchase clauses he should wait to hear what Conservatives suggest—Mr. W. H. Smith having a resolution on the subject which he will move next week. Mr. Gladstone's attitude in this matter has given rise to much comment, and the Government are accused of being without an Irish policy of their own, and of attempting to supply the deficiency by borrowing from their opponents.

The general impression in Ireland is that the Government, having conceded the popular demand with reference to arrears, will yield the other points embodied in the Land Act Amendment Bill of the Land League. That measure Mr. Parnell's lieutenants in the House of Commons told the Government represented the minimum which the League would accept in return for their endeavour to make the Land Act as effectual as its authors desired in the pacification of Ireland.

MR. GLADSTONE'S BUDGET.

Mr. Gladstone introduced his annual financial statement on April 24 by a reference to the expenditure, which, he said, was a growing expenditure, whilst the revenue was sluggish, but this, he observed, did not arise from any material diminution in the resources of the country. As regarded the expenditure of the past year it had fallen short of the estimate by £718,000, but a comparison with the expenditure of the previous year was a more serious matter, inasmuch as it showed an increase of £2,365,000. When compared with the revenue of the year the result was so far satisfactory that the balance was on the right side. The expenditure amounted to £85,472,000, and the income to £85,822,000, of which £71,457,000 was derived from taxes, as against £71,210,000, the amount of the estimate; and £14,365,000 from other sources, as against the estimate of £13,890,000. There was thus an excess of revenue over estimates of £722,000, and a small surplus over expenditure of £350,000, a notable circumstance in connection with the tax revenue being that it corresponded very closely with the increase of population. Having no adequate sum to give away, the right hon. gentleman abandoned, at all events for the present, the hope of dealing with the duties on silver plate, and proceeding to explain the results of the modifications made last year in the probate duty and the tax on beer, he called attention to the fact that the actual yield of the beer duty had been £220,000 short of the estimate. The increased temperate habits of the people probably had something to do with this deficiency. The revenue from coffee, cocoa, and chicory was not increasing, but that from tea showed an important advance. The operation of the diminution of the use of alcohol could be traced in the augmented savings of the people, the deposits made in the Post Office savings banks during the past year having very considerably exceeded even those of the prosperous year of 1872, besides which three-quarters of a million sterling had been invested for depositors. With regard to the National Debt, which stood on March 31 last year at £768,703,000—to which sum should be added £1,622,000, the value of an annuity for extinguishing the deficiency in the funds of the savings banks—it now amounted to £763,166,000, showing a reduction of £7,159,000 in the year just ended. As to the coming financial year 1882-83, he estimated the expenditure at £84,250,000, to which must be added £180,000 allowances for the Irish Constabulary; a charge of £100,000 in connection with the operation of the recent Prisons Act; and £90,000 for the civil government of Cyprus, making a general total of £84,630,000. Large though this was, it appeared comparatively insignificant beside the expenditure of France, which for the present year was estimated at £130,000,000 sterling. The total revenue he estimated at £84,935,000, giving a surplus of £305,000. The Government were compelled to abandon the hope of passing a County Boards Bill this session, but in order to fulfil their promise to relieve the ratepayers of part of the cost of highways, they would ask the House to supply them with a sum of £250,000 for that purpose by authorising an increase of the license duty on four-wheeled carriages from two guineas to three guineas, and that on two-wheeled carriages from 15s. to a guinea. This would place them in funds when the proper time came to consider any proposal which the president of the Local Government Board might be able to make in regard to the maintenance of highways. In conclusion, the right hon. gentleman moved the formal resolution for the renewal of the income tax.

THE GERMAN PARLIAMENT.

The extraordinary session of the German Parliament was opened on April 27 with very little ceremony. The speech read on behalf of the Emperor announced the reintroduction of the Working Men's Accident Insurance Bill, which is now based upon the statutes of the benefit societies. Bills will also be introduced for the compulsory insurance of working men against illness and the amendment of Trade Regulations. On the question of the reform of taxation the speech dwelt on the necessity of repealing the oppressive direct taxes in the States of the Empire, and also the increase in the communal tax. The Federal Governments sharing this conviction propose to substitute indirect taxation, which would increase the revenue of the Empire, and for this end the taxation of tobacco presents itself as one of the chief available means. It is only in regard to the form which such taxation should take that a divergence of views exists. The majority of the Federal Governments, the speech said, are in favour of a tobacco monopoly, and only in case this project should not be sanctioned by the national representation would other proposals be taken into consideration. Should no increase of the Imperial revenue in any form be approved, the Government, to the Emperor's deep regret, would renounce the idea of a reform of taxtion for the present. As to foreign affairs, they continue to justify in every respect the confidence felt by the Emperor in the continuance of the pacific and friendly relations with the Powers to which the Imperial message of last November bore testimony.

EXECUTION OF LAMSON.

George Henry Lamson was executed on April 28 in Wandsworth gaol, in the presence of the officials and a limited number of representatives of the press, for the murder of Percy John, his brother-in-law, at Wimbledon, in December last. Marwood was the executioner. The execution took place just before 9 o'clock. The condemned man had to descend about a dozen steps from the prison to the yard and walk about 80 yards to the spot where the gallows was set up. The procession was met about half-way by Marwood, who performed the operation of pinioning. The convict exhibited great nervousness, and looked listlessly at the few who were present. After the pinioning he was supported, almost led, by the warders on each side, and with difficulty reached the drop. The operation of adjusting the rope and putting on the white cap was accomplished with great rapidity, and the culprit died without a struggle. The drop was about nine feet. The body remained hanging for an hour, when it was cut down. The usual formal inquest was held in the afternoon. No information was given to the press as to the manner in which the convict spent his last night, nor was any statement made by the authorities as to any confession which the prisoner may have made. A considerable number of persons assembled in the vicinity of the gaol gates. About an hour before the execution a number of prisoners were liberated, their terms having expired. The following letter was written by the prisoner after the interview with his wife. It is addressed to a gentleman who has shown great interest in his fate:—"Wandsworth Prison, April 27. Mr. dear Mr. ———,—I feel it my duty to you and all my friends, and especially to my own family and relations, to say a few words in these my last hours upon earth in reference to the offence for which I am condemned to forfeit my life so shortly. I have told you much and endeavoured to make clear to you my own impressions and ideas as to my mental and moral condition for a long time previous to the act for which I am sentenced to death. The news of my brother-in-law's death roused me as from a species of cloud; then came my long period of imprisonment at Clerkenwell; and while there necessarily the total deprivation of the drug I had so long been accustomed to. With great mental and physical suffering was the weaning accomplished, leaving, however, strongly perceptible results. Then the fearful ordeal of the trial, the awful shock of the sentence, and then the sojourn in the condemned room here face to face with death, cleared away all clouds from my mind, and now, gazing back into the mists of the past, I believe I can truly and solemnly say, as only can be said under my present conditions, that in my right and normal state of mind the compassing and committing such a crime as that for which I must now die would have been utterly and absolutely impossible and altogether foreign to my whole nature and instincts. Subject to mental disturbances from slight causes from earliest years, with a brain easily affected, the use or abuse of morphia and sedatives and narcotics made a ready physical, mental, and moral victim of me. I earnestly pray Almighty God to pardon my yielding to such habits, and trust they may be an awful warning to others similarly tempted and assailed, seeing to what indescribably fearful consequences they have led in my case. I earnestly thank you and all my friends for efforts and prayers to obtain mercy for me, and, although ineffectual, you may have the great satisfaction of knowing from me that they were based upon tenable and honest grounds and foundation. Believe me, dear Mr. ——, with sincerest gratitude and true friendship and regards, most faithfully yours, GEO. H. LAMSON." In addition to this letter, Lamson, in the presence of the Deputy-Governor of the Prison, Captain L. P. Pennethorne, and the chaplain, wrote a definite confession that he administered poison to Percy Malcolm John with intent to take his life. He emphatically denies having been at all implicated in the death of Hubert John, who died in the prisoner's house at Rotherfield. The confession was signed by Lamson and attested by the Deputy-Governor and chaplain, and will be forwarded to the Home Office in due course.

THE JEWS IN RUSSIA.

The Philadelphia correspondent of the Times telegraphs on April 27:—The Secretary of State has addressed a communication to the American representative at St. Petersburg directing him to invite the Czar's attention to the reports of the ill-treatment of Russian Jews, to express the abhorrence felt in this country at their perpetration, and to entreat him to exercise his authority to prevent their recurrence. The President, in conversation, says that he will do whatever properly can be done to induce the Russian Government to extend the fullest protection to its Jewish subjects; that it was a delicate matter for us to interfere between Russia and its subjects, but that he was determined to do all that could be done, with strict regard to international usage and courtesy, to obtain for them the same freedom and protection which are accorded to others.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The festivities at the British Embassy at Berlin in honour of the marriage of the Duke of Albany were of a very grand character. All the members of the German Royal Family residing at Berlin and Potsdam were present at a banquet at the King's Palace.

The engagement of Prussian officers by the Sultan for the purpose of drilling his troops is naturally considered in Germany to be a proof of great discernment on the part of his Majesty, as all those officers under engagement to proceed to Turkey are spoken of as most efficient and experienced, and indeed the very pink of the army.

A telegram from Kamenetz, in the Government of Podolsk, states that a great fire broke out in that town recently, by which many shops and houses belonging to the Jews were reduced to ashes. The damage is estimated at 500,000 roubles.

Intelligence received from Odessa confirms the outrages against the Jews in Balta, describing them as of the most horrible character, and stating that 2000 Jewish families were ruined. Whole streets were wrecked, the plundering lasting for two days. Innumerable acts of violence were committed, and the riots almost partook of the character of a war of extermination against the Jews, the assailants being peasants, who had been summoned from neighbouring villages by the authorities under the pretext of protecting the Jews against the fury of the populace. According to the same intelligence, the small market town of Bopolo, 10 versts from Odessa, has been surprised by peasants, presumably under the leadership of Nihilists. The streets there inhabited by Jews were sacked and partially burned.

FIJI.

By the Ly-ee-Moon (s.), from Levuka, we have news from Fiji to May 26. From the Fiji Argus we extract the following:—

H.M.S. Renard is having some necessary alterations effected before leaving to commence surveying operations in various parts of the group.

There is quite a revival in Levuka in the matter of extension and improvement of business places, and all the carpenters and joiners in town are now fully employed, while other extensive erections are talked about. This is satisfactory, not only as showing that the panic which the first removals to Suva caused has now died out, but that public confidence in the future of Levuka is reviving.

By recent arrivals from Savu Savu Bay, intelligence was brought to Levuka of a native disturbance of a serious nature, which had occurred some time last week at an inland town on Vanua Levu, near the Dreketi River, where a collision had taken place between the townspeople, headed by Roko Cegu, and some officers of the Buli of the district. At least one man was killed, and others are missing. Our informant states that one of the Buli's men having been made prisoner by their opponents, succeeded in escaping, but upon being again secured his captors deliberately broke all his limbs to prevent a second attempt. The particulars to hand so far are of a very meagre description, but others will doubtless soon come to hand, and in the meantime the Government are taking steps to have the matter thoroughly investigated, and the culpable persons punished.

By the mail, which left Levuka for England, via New Zealand and America, per s.s. Tairoa, was forwarded the petition of land owners and colonists of Fiji to H.M.'s Secretary of State for the Colonies, praying that a competent tribunal, unconnected with the Government of the colony, may be appointed to deal with disallowed claims, which has received the signatures of some 96 individuals and firms directly interested, amongst whom are some of our leading colonists, besides leading mercantile firms in Australia. With the petition, the Land Claimants' Protection Association of Fiji have caused to be forwarded a number of copies of a pamphlet on the land tenure of Fiji, which treats of the subject matter of the petition in a more exhaustive manner. What the outcome of this movement may be is of course entirely a matter of speculation, but it is certain that no stronger constitutional appeal, backed by more deeply interesting and influential persons, could possibly be made.

Total, 92,570 more or less.
The above sheep were all shorn early last year, and are now in grand condition.

comprising the Runs originally known as Cobran, Thule, Gobba, and Tantonan, with remaining Crown lands thereon.
Also,
Sheep, Cattle, and Horses.

JOHN G. DOUGHARTY (in conjunction with Pitt, Son, and Badgery, Sydney) has been instructed by the Executors of the late Dr. J. C. Telford to offer for sale by auction at Melbourne, in November next, date to be fixed hereafter, before which time full particulars of the property will be advertised.
The freehold, consisting of about 145,000 acres, is well-known to form one of the finest and most compact estates in Australia, situated in New South Wales, within two hours' drive of the Deniliquin and Echuca railway, and within seven hours' railway communication of Melbourne market, for the sale of fat sheep, and its port for the shipment of wool. A most favourable opportunity is thus afforded to private individuals or to companies for obtaining not only an improving property, but an absolutely safe investment.
The land has admirable fattening and wool-growing capabilities and the value of the property is largely enhanced by the soil (in the opinion of competent judges), being well adapted for wheat growing.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.
JOURNAL OF THE SOCIETY OF ARTS.
"The information given in this book is so arranged as to be practically useful to those who require Designs of Furniture such as are called for by the wants of the present day."

THE ANTIQUARY.
"The introductory 'Notes on Household Furniture' which precedes the plates is an interesting and lucid summary of the chief points in the history of household furniture. We take it as a good sign in the progress of artistic furniture that this work should have been so handsomely and expensively produced, and accompanied by a well-executed sketch of what household furniture was in the past."

FURNITURE GAZETTE.
"Any complete and faithful record of the Furniture used by the masses of any country at a particular time must be of value, and such a work is now before us in the shape of a comprehensive Catalogue of Registered Designs of Colonial Furniture, as special interest attaches to this book from the fact that it forms an historical record of more than ordinary value, showing the improvements in style that have taken place from time to time. We feel sure that this enterprise will meet with commercial success as well as do a great service to the progress of art in this country."

ARCHITECTS' AND BUILDERS' TRADE REVIEW.
"Our attention has been called to one of the finest productions on Cabinet Furniture which has ever been published. Although there is such a number of Designs for Furniture in this work, yet there is no vulgar crowding, but on each page a choice selection of practical Furniture. The book is the result of very great care, and we recommend it to the attention of all those who want a reliable reference to the best kinds of Furniture."
